Committees Ask Recreational Uses for Reservoirs

An executive committee of the East Bay Municipal Utility District heard recommendations this week that the district's Lafayette, Chabot and Briones Valley reservoirs be developed for recreational purposes.

Two subcommittees, which have been studying five EBMUD terminal reservoirs since a review was requested by the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors, suggested that the Lafayette and Chabot reservoirs be developed as recreational facilities at the same time.

They also suggested that the Briones Valley facility, to be located between Lafayette and Orinda, be similarly developed when it is completed in about five years.

The Sun has editorially advocated the location of parks and recreation facilities at the district reservoirs during the last several years.

Meeting at the Red Mill in Lafayette, the EBMUD executive committee announced that a 37-member general citizens advisory committee will be appointed at a meeting August 8 to receive the findings of the subcommittees and continue the study.

After the Contra Costa supervisors' original request for a study of San Pablo Reservoir, the executive committee was formed by EBMUD and county officials, sportsmen, recreation leaders and other interested citizens.

Purpose of this committee was to generally review the status and potential of the reservoirs in preparation for more specific surveys.

Both subcommittees indicated the San Pablo and Upper San Leandro reservoirs are relatively low in recreational potential and are too complicated to develop to be included in the development studies.

The fish and game subcommittee stressed the fishing potential of the reservoirs, while the recreational development committee stressed family outings.

Both subcommittees realize the importance of meeting growing recreational needs without jeopardizing the quality of EBMUD's water, according to F. H. Eastman, the district's secretary.

Eastman said this would exclude swimming from among the uses of the reservoirs, but would allow fishing and boating and using the shoreline for picnicking.

Among those present at the executive committee meeting Monday were T. Earle Hipp, assistant secretary of the district; Joe DeCosta, EBMUD chief engineer; Francis Dunn, J. P. McBrien and Chuck Hammond, all of the county administrator's office; and Duane Mattison, county parks director.

Judge's Ruling Upholds Property Owners' Rights

A new legal precedent has been established with a ruling by Superior Judge Hugh Donovan which holds that governmental agencies cannot condemn entire parcels of land when only portions of the properties are needed.

The new ruling, which may affect any number of future land condemnations by governmental agencies throughout the state, was delivered by Judge Donovan in reference to a suit brought by Lafayette realtor Anthony G. Lagiss.

LAGISS was the owner of a 7000-square foot business lot located south of the Pleasant Hill interchange of the freeway, adjacent to the Lafayette Cemetery property.

Lagiss' legal fight for the property extends back to 1955, when the State Department of Public Works acquired the entire parcel of land, despite the fact it required only 5000 square feet of it for the interchange.

State agents at first offered to purchase the entire parcel from Lagiss. The realtor stated he wanted to keep the unused 2000 square feet of the property, but the state said he could do this only if he waived any rights he might have for severance damages. Lagiss refused, and the law suite resulted.

THE EFFECT of Judge Donovan's ruling is that the original owner may keep the unused portion of land condemned by government bodies, and he may be able also to collect severance damages.

Some court observers indicated the ruling may boost the cost of rights-of-way throughout the state by millions of dollars.

Judge Donovan ruled that throughout the negotiations the state did not indicate it wanted the unused piece of land for any other purpose other than to preclude severance damages. He said the action of the state amounted to bad faith and abuse of discretion, and that the property was not taken for public use.

SEVERANCE costs may be assessed to cover damage to the remaining portion of property when part is taken for some public purpose. The amount of damage often reflects the effect on the market value of the remaining portion.

The superior court ruling followed a trial before Judge Donovan—a trial which was necessitated by the State District Court of Appeal reversal of a prior decision which held that a property owner had no right to contest the state's action in taking more land than was necessary for public use.

Lagiss originally was represented in his action by John A. Nejedly, present district attorney. The attorney in the recent successful action for the realtor was James E. Cox, member of the Martinez law firm of Tinning and DeLap.

THE LAFAYETTE man said that although the state has had his property since 1955, he has not received any payment for any portion of the land. He added that he has had to pay all legal costs out of his pocket, and that he can look for no compensation from the state.

The next step, he said, is to go to court to establish a purchase price for the land. This may be curtailed by a new appeal on behalf of the state.

Lagiss stated, "I feel this decision is an important one for all landowners who find themselves unduly pressured and unfairly treated by this over-powerful governmental agency.

"It is comforting to know that the courts are alert to such abuses. I feel no property owner should be coerced into parting with all of his property when in fact only a portion of it is needed for the public improvement and the remainder is valuable and usable to its present owner."

Local Inventor Explains Fire System to British

John E. Lindberg and his wife Lois, of 1170 Oleander Drive, recently returned from a business and pleasure trip to England and France.

They flew by Pan American World Airlines over the North Pole to London and returned to the United States on the Queen Mary.

THIS TRIP WAS made at the request of the British aircraft industry, in order that Lindberg might show and explain his new aircraft fire detection system, developed over the last 12 years.

The system is designed to increase flying safety by bringing to an end false fire warnings that have plagued airlines operations for years.

Two Pan American Airway planes, the Boeing 707 and DC7C, are currently flight testing the detection system.

Engineers of other American airlines, as well as the British, have expressed interest in the system and are watching the results of the Pan American tests.

ACCORDING TO LINDBERG, it is virtually impossible for the system to give a false warning. Nothing less than an actual fire cause the detector to give an alarm.

It is insensitive to altitude, moisture and other environmental conditions. The system may be immersed, with all terminals exposed, in sea water, without causing a false warning, or impairing its operation.

It can be tied in with a knot and beaten with a hammer and still be effective. Not even wiring failure can cause a false alarm.

AN AIRLINE trade magazine, "Air Life," pointed out another advantage of Lindberg's system. A complete DC-8 installation weighs about 19 pounds. Other fire detector systems, in a similar installation may weigh well over 70 pounds.

Inventor Lindberg is an aeronautical engineer and an author who has contributed much to airline engineering during the past 25 years.

In addition to his fire detector, Lindberg invented the Sperry engine analyzer, an instrument which enables a flight engineer to immediately detect, identify, and locate engine trouble while in flight.

For this idea, he received the American Aviation Magazine Annual Engineering Award.

LINDBERG WAS also the recipient, along with James W. Wheeler, head of engine instrument department of the Sperry Gyroscope Co., of the Musick Memorial Trophy for 1951. This presentation was made by L. K. Munro, ambassador of New Zealand.

The Musick Memorial Trophy, known throughout the world of aviation, is an annual award "to the group, body or individual, who has made the contribution, development or improvement most effective in furthering the safety of aircraft, with special emphasis to transoceanic aviation."

Some of Lindberg's other inventions include a capacitance gauge to measure the amount of gasoline in large storage tanks and an ice detector for use on aircraft engines.

HE HAS ALSO CARRIED on experiments with detonations for the United States Coordination Research Council. A number of his articles on engineering have been printed in engineering journals and lay magazines.

Lindberg began his career in aviation with Pan American World Airways, where he was supervisor of development and standards.

Several years ago he left Pan American so that he could devote full time to the research an ddevelopment of his own inventions at his laboratory in Berkeley.

Lindberg is a past president of the Lafayette Rotary Club and has also served as president of the Contra Costa Council of Rotary Presidents.

While in England, he was able to continue his perfect attendance record in Rotary. He attended one meeting in London, two at Windsor, across from Queen Elizabeth's Castle, and one at Staines, a club that celebrated its 50th anniversary five years ago.

LINDBERG WAS greatly impressed by the interest and friendliness, demonstrated by the members of the London Club to the 40 to 50 visitors from outside of England, he said.

He presented a Rotary banner of Lafayette to each of the clubs that he visited and brought home with him greeting cards from the English Rotary presidents to Dr. John Moore, president of the local club.

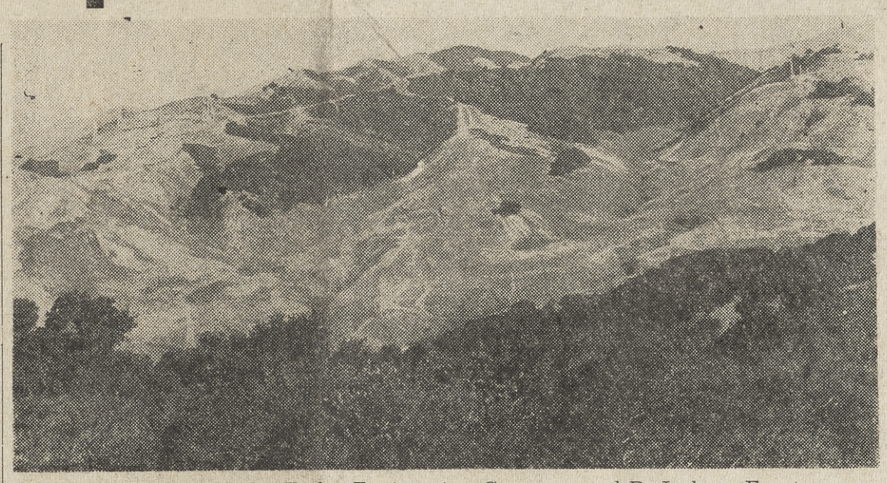
Road Replacement Issue Reaches Climax



SUGGESTIONS BY the Tudor Engineering Company and D. Jackson Faustman, a Sacramento consulting engineer, for the replacement of Bear Creek Road involve this terrain north of Sleepy Hollow in Orinda. The replacement road is to be built by the East Bay Municipal Utility District because the district's Briones Reservoir will inundate the present Bear Creek Road. The engineering suggestions would have the new road built where this picture was taken from, in the vicinity of residential properties. Residents in the area have asked to have the road located along the near-level piece of land in the background. —Sun photo by Dave Ogden.

First Public Hearing on Bear Creek Is Tuesday

By LARRY GLAZIER

Two homeowners groups in the Lafayette-Orinda area will hold separate meetings Monday night to prepare public statements which will be made regarding the proposed Bear Creek Road relocation.

The Orinda Association's board of directors will hold a special public meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the Orinda School. Directors of the Happy Valley Improvement Association will meet the same evening.

Subject of both meetings will be a discussion of a hearing scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Hall of Records, Martinez, by the County Planning Commission.

THE HEARING will be the first official one on the proposed relocation of Bear Creek Road by the East Bay Municipal Utility District at a cost of between $3 and $5 million.

EBMUD's construction of the Briones Valley Reservoir, due to be completed in about five years, will inundate most of Bear Creek Road and a portion of Hampton Road. Because of this, the utility district contracted with the county to construct the replacement road.

A study was made last year by the Tudor Engineering Company for the county, and the firm recommended that the new road be built south of the proposed reservoir and through some residential properties in the Sleepy Hollow and Upper Happy Valley areas.

SEVERAL months ago, the Sleepy Hollow Recreation Association and the Sleepy Hollow Improvement Association protested the construction of the road in the southern location because it would require the taking of some of the Sleepy Hollow recreation and pool land and would create traffic problems in the Sleepy Hollow area.

Other residents contended that the road was an unnecessary one and that the money EBMUD owes the county for the road could be used at a greater profit.

The county supported its stand on the road by stating that an access road will be necessary to the proposed Briones Park area north of Happy Valley, and that the traffic flow in the area in 20 years would require the new throughway.

BUT IN deference to the protests of the residents, the county ordered that an independent survey be made by D. Jackson Faustman, a consulting engineer from Sacramento.

Faustman's report was received by the county and the interested homeowners' groups about two weeks ago, and it will be discussed at Tuesday night's public hearing.

In his report, Faustman said he is working under the assumption that the western part of the Briones Valley Reservoir will not be developed for recreational uses and that the Briones Park will eventually be developed and a road will be needed.

THE ENGINEER said that neither the southern route or a route along the north rim of the reservoir, proposed by the residents, can be economically justified, but that the southern route should be constructed because of other factors.

His report explains that if the inundated roads are not replaced and the Briones Park becomes a reality, there will be increased traffic on the Happy Valley roadnet, the only access to the park.

But Robert Kahn, president of the Happy Valley Improvement Association, said that construction of the replacement road as suggested "looks like an unwise use of public funds unless we first resolve the question of recreational usage at the dams." (See additional story this issue).

KAHN SAID that if there is no recreational development of the EBMUD reservoirs, the county will be required to pass a large bond issue in order to finance development of Briones Park, which has been recommended by the County Park and Recreation Council.

He suggested that if the reservoirs could be developed the replacement road would not be necessary and the money owed to the county by EBMUD could be used in building access roads to the dams and in developing the areas.

Officers Check Damages to Nine Area Mailboxes

Sheriff's deputies and fire department officials are combining their efforts in an attempt to locate the teenagers who blew up nine mailboxes, eight of them in a single residential area in Orinda, last weekend.

All of the explosions in the Orinda area occurred on Orchard and Overhill Roads and Glorietta Boulevard last Friday night, and one Lafayette incident took place Saturday night, the sheriff's office reported.

DEPUTIES indicated they believe about five teenagers are responsible. The investigation is continuing, they said, and the Post Office Department will receive a report.

Orinda Fire Marshal William Koch said he is interested in determining whether there is any connection between the mailbox incidents and the apprehension of three Orinda youths last month in another firecracker case.

The sheriff's office confirmed this week that the mailboxes had been damaged by the placing of a firecracker in the boxes.

IN THE earlier case, the sheriff's office and Koch were called to investigate the sale of cases of firecrackers to the teenagers, who in turn sold the pyrotechnics to younger Orinda students.

Parents of the three teenagers have since appeared before juvenile authorities, Koch stated.

Mailboxes which were damaged were at the home of Clinton Paine, 39 Orchard Road; Robert C. Anthonisen, 37 Orchard Road; Shirley M. Fager, 24 Orchard Road; Robert Bowles, 102 Orchard Road; Jean Barthe, 52 Orchard Road; Mrs. Ed B. Hudson, 261 Glorietta Boulevard; Eldred Patton, 298 Glorietta Boulevard; and Robert Thomas, 141 Overhill Road.

The Lafayette incident occurred at the home of Norman L. Roy, 522 Florence Drive, sheriff's deputies said.

Frank Arata Criticizes Fire District Chief

A barbecue supper given by volunteer firemen of the East Contra Costa Fire District for themselves and commissioners Monday night ended in a wrangle over jurisdiction of the chief.

The party in the Rheem station was followed by a regular meetign during which commissioner Frank Arata criticized Chief Al Baitx' direction of recent firefighting in the Marsh Creek area.

The Marsh Creek area is nominally under control of assistant volunteer chief Bob Hansen.

ARATA TOLD Baitx he should have stuck to the Moraga end of the fire district, and that the board had spelled out a division of responsibility which Baitx should have observed.

Baitx said it was his legal responsibility to assume control wherever there is a fire in the district as long as he is chief and has no contrary instructions from the board in writing.

Commissioner Harry Rohrer and chairman Howard Wiedemann said Baitx was right. He was either chief or he wasn't and commissioner Lee Higgins posed the question whether a division of responsibility is legal. The board instructed secretary Stanford White to obtain the opinion of the district attorney.

WHEN OTHER business of the regular meeting could be discussed, some of the Moraga department firemen pointed out inequities in the new salary schedule recommended by the Board of Supervisors.

A report was given that the fire district tax rate is expected to be 53.4 cents, with a 40.6 cent override for the new Moraga area zone, making the total rate for Moraga 94 cents.

A request from Volk-McLain Co. for fire protection on a temporary contract basis at the projected San Ramon Village near Dublin was reviewed. Further study of the request is required according to Wiedemann.

Committee For Moraga Plan Named

Thirteen persons, including seven Moraga residents, began work on a review of the proposed Moraga General Plan this week after their appointment to a committee by the County Planning Commission.

Boone Robinson, planning commission member who resides in Orinda, was named to head the committee, which will report its findings to the county body. The date of the report will be set later.

THE COMMITTEE was agreed upon July 5 after an hour long public hearing in Martinez failed to resolve the controversial Moraga Plan.

The six-year-old conflict between Moraga residents and the county centers on the inclusion of controlled manufacturing and general commercial zoning in the plan. The residents have fought for exclusive residential zoning with a small amount of retail business.

Bestor Robinson, attorney for the Utah Construction Company, is another member of the new committee.

THE COUNTY planning department will be represented on the committee by Thomas Heaton, planning director; and Edward Radosevich, Tony DeHaesus and Norman Halverson.

The Moraga community will be represented by Rex Collings, Jr., law professor and member of the Moraga School Board; and Vincent Young, Bruce Barclay, Dr. Leland Nelson, Robert Amber, Robert DeJohn and Ted Sawyer, all of the Moraga Community Club.

Readers Win: Libraries Will Be Open Six Days

Booklovers won a reprieve—if not a total stay of execution—Tuesday when the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors rescinded their order of June 28 to cut back operation of 13 of the county's 17 public libraries from six to five days a week.

The supervisors made the move on the suggestion of County Administrator J. P. McBrien, who had originally proposed the cut in hours on the estimate that it would save the county $28,000 annually.

BUT THE measure met with strong opposition from library leagues and private citizens throughout the county.

However, the restitution of hours is only pending a joint study of the proposal by the administrator's office and the staff of the county librarian, Bertha Hellum.

McBrien told supervisors some question has arisen as to whether the move would be sufficiently economical to merit the change.

McBRIEN NOTED, however, "That we have not short-changed the library system. In the last five years the department's share of the county tax rate has risen from 7.9 cents to 12.7 cents proposed in this year's preliminary budget."

The original board order, which was to become effective August 1, would have closed the libraries on Monday. The other four installations are already maintained on a five-day week.

Valuation Takes $2 Million Rise

Joseph Sheaff, superintendent of the Orinda Union School District, has announced that Orinda's assessed valuation is $29,764,695, up from last year's $27,795,760.

The announcement was made at the regular meeting of the school district's board of trustees at their meeting last night.

Sheaff anticipates the school tax rate will not be as high as originally expected. The present tax rate is $2.24 per $100 assessed valuation.

Sixth Graders Get Lessons in Coping With Outdoors

YOUNGSTERS TAKING part in the Orinda Union School District's Science and Conservation Through Outdoor Education program are taught their public responsibilities as well as new and enlightening facts about the natural sciences. Here a group of the youngsters are shown as they assist in a Highway 50 trash detail near the SACTOE camp. From left to right are Brian Tibbets, Phil Bush, Bob Littlejohn, Vicky Dalton and Peggy Kettle.

One-Week Sessions Teach Youngsters New Approach

For the sixth consecutive year, the Orinda Union School District has developed a successful outdoor education program for its sixth grade students.

The program, known as Science and Conservation Through Outdoor Education, has as its headquarters the Kaleva Ski Lodge at Echo Summit in the Lake Tahoe area. It is operated in six one-week sessions between June 20 and July 29.

ALL STUDENTS who will be sixth graders in September are eligible for the program, and the cost is only $16 per student for the week. The cost covers food, lodging, transportation and insurance.

In case of an unanticipated need, a special fund for the SACTOE program has been established through contributions of the Orinda Rotary Club.

The Orinda program, only one in the central county area, was developed through the initiative of Frank Isola, the district's recreation director, who has served as director of the mountain program ever since.

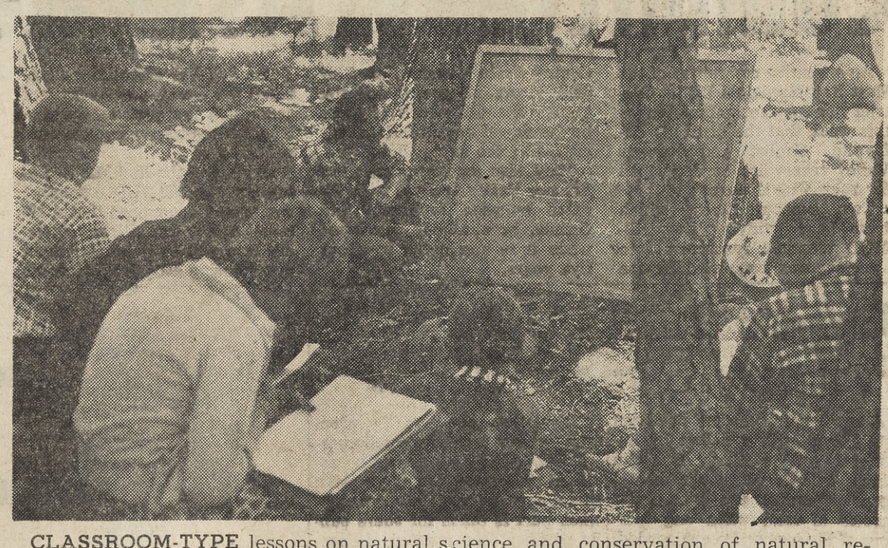
STUDENTS WHO take part in the program live in primitive camping style, weather permitting, but are able to move indoors to the lodge if necessary.

Isola has indicated the program is an essential step in acquainting the 10- and 11-year-olds with the special significance of the great outdoors.

He said the program brings the youngsters closer to the living nature than a classroom lecture can possibly do, and therefore the learning process is made more realistic.

FINALLY, THE director stated, the students are taught to live together in an entirely new environment—one which some of them may never before have experienced.

The outdoor education philosophy has been adopted by the State Legislature through a statute permitting the development of these programs by individual or combined school districts within each of the state's counties.



CLASSROOM-TYPE lessons on natural science and conservation of natural resources are the order of the day at the Orinda Union School District's outdoor education program. Raymond Ferro, assistant director of the program, explains a lesson on "Trees of the Sierra" to this interested group of sixth graders.

Realtors Hit $3 Million Sales Mark--A Record

For the first time since its organization in 1946, the Multiple Listing Service of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board has exceeded the $3 million mark for one month's sales.

The sales reached a grand total of $3,331,025 in June, this year.

There were 462 listings and 177 sales during June, said executive vice president Wayne Bailey.

DURING June of last year, the figure was $2,936,210, representing 148 sales out of 299 listings, Bailey said.

Things are humming right along this year, with $14,392,062 in MLS sales from January to June. Last year, the comparable figure was $11,705,6366.

Bailey added, "Much of the credit for the increased sales volume goes to the new active offices in Concord, which are cooperating with Contra Costa offices 100 per cent."

The Concord brokers and salesmen several months ago voted to join the Contra Costa Board, and are now using the board's building on Locust Street and other facilities.

BAILEY also had some other interesting figures.

Membership - wise, the Contra Costa board is the seventh largest in California, with 148 brokers and about 530 salesmen.

The local board's sales volume is in the top four or five in the state, Bailey said.

At the board's breakfast Monday, D. C. Ryman spoke on future highways. He is the State Division of Highways assistant district engineer.

New Faces on Hospital Board; Groundbreak Soon

Three new trustees have been chosen by the John Muir Memorial Hospital Association, and two others were re-elected during the first annual election.

New to the board are Ivan Chappell, Danville superintendent of schools; Dr. Howard B. Flanders, Walnut Creek physician and surgeon; and Gene Harter of Lafayette.

Frank Marshall, mayor of Walnut Creek, and John Nejedly, county district attorney, have been re-elected.

These men will serve on the board with Dr. Frederick W. Ackerman, Pleasant Hill physician and surgeon: Edmund S. Barnett of Lafayette, Walnut Creek attorney; Dr. Marvin A. Epstein of Alamo, Walnut Creek physician; Mrs. Harmon K. Howard of Walnut Creek.

RICHARD K. Humphries of Concord, president of Pacific Cement and Aggregates Company; Dr. Frederick M. Hanson, Walnut Creek obstetrician; Mrs. Frank T. Malley of Lafayette; David Zuckerman, Walnut Creek building contractor; Dr. Harold S. Robinson, Walnut Creek physician; and Howard L. Sehlin, Walnut Creek bank manager.

New officers will be elected by the hospital board at its next meeting, according to Dr. Hanson, board vice chairman.

Retiring board members are Bruce Copeland, former Pleasant Hill resident and board chairman, who has moved to Sacramento, and Dr. Charles J. Hart, Walnut Creek physician.

"We anticipate an announcement about ground breaking soon," said Dr. Hanson.

TO BE BUILT on a centrally located 10-acre site near Walnut Creek, John Muir Memorial Hospital is to be a non-profit, non-denominational, regional hospital serving people of the entire Central Contra Costa County area.

By minimum state hospital standards, it is estimated that this area now is some 400 hospital beds short for its present population, which is rapidly expanding.

The hospital headquarters office is located at 1361 Locust Street, Walnut Creek.

Diablo Drag Association Is Formed

Frans Scholin, of 1381 Geary Road, has announced the formation of the Diablo Drag Association. He states the organization already has attracted 15 members representing various central Contra Costa car clubs.

The Diablo Drag Association is being assisted by the Pleasant Hill Lions Club and is seeking more members and additional sponsors.

The association is attempting to obtain a paved strip where cars may be tested safely. Members said a highway patrol officer told them that when a drag strip was obtained in Fremont, 99 per cent of the street racing problem was eliminated.

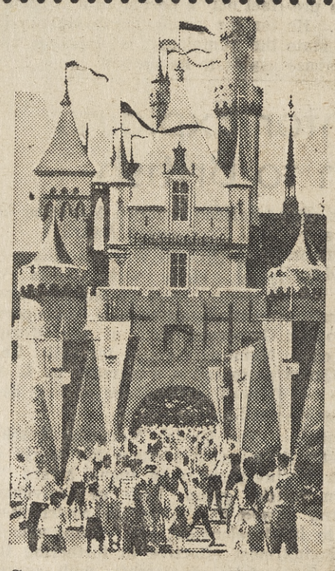
Howard Greenhalgh, your Telephone Manager in Orinda



One of Disneyland's most spectacular attractions is the Circarama tour of "America the Beautiful." For you're encircled by 11 screens as this unique movie takes you to Times Square at night, a New England village, the Grand Canyon and many other parts of our land. The effect is breathtaking . . . just like being in these places yourself. And it's free, too—part of an exhibit sponsored by Pacific Telephone and the Bell Telephone System. If you visit Disneyland this summer, be sure you see Circarama, I know you'll enjoy it.

Most folks think that television is a recent invention. But this picture proves differently. That's the back of the television set that picked up the first city-to-city telecast. The year was 1927, and the program featured Herbert Hoover! Research by Bell Telephone Laboratories helped make possible that first telecast, and it was carried over a long distance telephone line. Today, telephone equipment still has a lot to do with bringing you television. Pictures from the entertainment centers of the nation travel to your local stations over our equipment—coaxial cables and microwave radio relay—before they're beamed to your home. While telephone research is always focused on bringing you better phone service, it is interesting how often its discoveries pay off for you in other ways, too.*

Summertime. That's the time folks spend plenty of hours outdoors. And here's an idea we've come up with that can add a lot to your outdoor living. It's a portable phone that can move outdoors with you. We put in jacks for it near your garden, patio or pool so you can plug it in wherever you go. Think of the steps it can save! If you'd like more information about this handy portable phone, just give us a call.

Supervisors Stop San Ramon Valley Sanitation Plans

The Central Contra Costa Sanitary District's plans to develop the San Ramon Valley as part of its master plan have come to a halt.

The Parks Community Services District (Volk McLain Co.) expects to administer and finance sewerage service facilities for the Volk McLain development in the San Ramon Valley.

The bulk of property owners in the Amador Basin have protested a county sanitation district, and the board of supervisors has abandoned the plan.

SUPERVISORS approved a statement prepared by the district attorney, John A. Nejedly; health officer J. H. Blum, M.D., and public works director Victor W. Sauer.

The statement was sent to property owners in the Amador Basin (in the San Ramon Valley) and said in part that this type of district (Parks Community Services) can effectively destroy any master planning for the area.

The county's plan for sewerage for the Amador Basin would provide for entire development of the basin through gravity collection of sewage in a main trunk running from the vicinity of the northerly rim of the basin to the county line. Intermediate pump stations along the main trunk would lift the sewage to a "high line" constructed in the westerly foothills of the basin and which would eventually discharge northerly to Suisun Bay.

THE STATEMENT continued, should the Parks Community Services District (Volk-McLain Co.) proceed with their plans, without all the lands in the basin participating in their program, overall development of the basin will in all probability be lost for all time to come. It is questionable whether the board of supervisors will find it feasible at some later date to form a sanitation district to serve the fringe areas of the basin by constructing works paralleling in function any portion of the Parks Community Services District system.

Gerry Horstkotte, manager-engineer of the CCC Sanitary District, said the district will proceed with its plans as far as the crest of the Walnut Creek watershed in the San Ramon area.

AT LAST Tuesday night's regular meeting of CCC Sanitary District's board of directors, the board:

Established a watershed charge in the Bonnie Brae subdivision at $275 per acre.

Adopted September 13 as election date for directors of the district. Terms of three directors—Irving C. Roemer, Frank Salfingere, and Ernest I. Spiegl—will expire at that time. Candidates must file for the offices by Aug. 4.

DIRECTED Horstkotte to advise a company which has been circulating for solicitation of trash in the Pleasant Hill area that such a company must be licensed.

Horstkotte reported that work on the Line D right-of-way through Lafayette has begun, and that the Orinda and Moraga pump stations will be completed by Wednesday. After testing, the Moraga station will remain in service.

Sam Conti Will Head Republican Central Committee

The Contra Costa County Republican Central Committee has elected new officers for a two-year term. Heading the state is Concord attorney Sam Conti, who was named chairman.

Other officers who will serve with Conti are:

Mrs. Ruth Young, Walnut Creek housewife, vice chairman for women.

Harold Bates, Lafayette insurance man, vice chairman for the 10th Assembly District.

Milton Vail of Richmond, a college insctructor, vice chairman for the 11th Assembly District.

Jack Pedder, Lafayette insurance broker, secretary.

Mary Lowden, retired Richmond school teacher, treasurer.

Conti was named to the Central Committee during Tuesday night's organization meeting to replace Dr. Robert Graham, Concord veterinarian, who resigned due to the press of business.

Mt. Diablo Ski Club Open to New Members

The Mount Diablo Ski Club held its annual installation of officers at Kellogg's Restaurant in Walnut Creek on Saturday night.

Officers installed are Jack Cook, president; Frank Sellers, vice president; Joan Franz, secretary; Marian Franklin, treasurer; Ruth Balsizer, Ed Kamlin and Gus Lein, directors.

Members of the club are ski enthusiasts, including beginners to experts. The membership include residents of Concord, Pleasant Hill, Walnut Creek, Alamo, Danville, Lafayette, Orinda, and surrounding areas.

Last season the club leased a lodge at the entrance to Squaw Valley and the members participated in many inexpensive ski trips.

The Mount Diablo Ski Club is now accepting new members. For information call Jack Cook, AT 3-8851, or Frank Sellers, YE 4-3545.

First Major Contract for Interim Flood Job Signed

The first major phase of the $642,000 interim project for deepening and enlarging the Walnut Creek channel will be undertaken by Winton Jones Company of Concord.

It was low bidder among four for a cost-plus contract to enlarge the channel from Ygnacio Valley Road north to Bancroft Dam. This covers more than a mile.

The contract is expected to involve about $187,000.

THIS IS the third contract awarded as part of the overall project, but the first two were minor, involving tree removal.

Two more big contracts will be awarded.

Bids will be opened July 26 for a project to enlarge the channel from Arnold Industrial Highway south to Willow Pass Road.

Bids will be opened August 2 for realignment of the channel according to state specifications from Willow Pass Road upstream to just north of Monument Boulevard, a distance of some 5700 feet.

TARGET date for completion of the entire job is early in October.

Said Carl Rich, chief engineer of the County Flood Control and Water Conservation District: "We got off to a slow start, but we are now geared to accomplish it in that time."

Also, the board of supervisors will advertise for bids next week for a project to modify Bancroft Dam.

An agreement between Phil Bancroft and the board will be examined by the district commissioners next Tuesday.

The dam crest level will be lowered, increasing the channel capacity upstream, said Rich.

Seat Belts Urged Upon Residents

Dr. Warren A. Ketterer, assistant health officer, Contra Costa County Health Department, has appealed to the public to install and use auto seat belts.

"Much of the slaughter over the July week-end could have been averted if seat belts had been used," he added.

Accidents of any magnitude are a national calamity but overwhelming evidence now indicates that auto deaths and injuries can be reduced by 40-60 per cent when seat belts are used.

Science Fair Is Climax Of Jr. Museum Program

A Science Fair, concentrating on natural history, will conclude the sixth annual Junior Museum summer program, July 30 at Walnut Creek School.

The public is invited to see the results of six weeks of intensive class and nature trail study by some 185 boys and girls, ages seven to 13. They are from all the communities in the central county.

Bill Johnson, biology instructor at Watsonville High School, has been instructor for the daily classes and also "on the trail."

FOCI OF interest: birds, mammals, reptiles, pond life, insects, plant life.

The Science Fair exhibits will be seen at the Walnut Creek School multi-use room. The regular class sessions are being given in the school's music room.

Diablo Junior Museum adult sponsors, including President Alex Lindsay, hope someday that the summer sessions will be given in the Junior Museum's own building, located on a seven acre parcel at the edge of the large Marchbank Ranch. Negotiations to that end have been going for a long time.

Further expension of the program is anticipated when that day arrives.

THIS YEAR, the Junior Museum people missed the services of Ferd Ruth, Diablo Valley College instructor, because he has been teaching adult summer education classes. And the new Walnut Creek School District summer school has cut into the attendance somewhat.

But the children's enthusiasm is just as high, or higher than in past years. And the program will grow even stronger in the future, Lindsay predicts.

The present building on the parcel, the former Sportsman's Club building, has been found wanting as a facility for the entire Junior Museum program.

A new building is the fond hope of Junior Museum members, also the Junior Museum Alliance and various sympathetic groups.

ONCE FINAL arrangements are made by the City of Walnut Creek with Marin Capital Company, San Francisco, for donation of the seven acre parcel to the city, and the lease of the land from the city to the Junior Museum is completed — a campaign will begin.

Museum people want to raise enough money to finance a new building with perhaps 3500 square feet interior space.

The architect's plans have been prepared by Leonard Ford. Included are exhibit hall, live animal room, outside pens and cages.

The old building may be used by the city or by the Junior Museum group for storage or other purposes, said Lindsay.

THE NEW building will be located near a scenic lake on the seven acres, and Phil Bancroft's contingent donation of five acres on the other side of Sheppard Road will make the entire area ideal for children's instruction and recreation, he added.

The Walnut Creek Park and Recreation Commission is assisting in forming a program based on the future facilities, Lindsay said.

Transit District Tabulates Increase

Do you commuters notice that the traffic is a lot heavier in the mornings (and evenings) than it used to be?

Do you notice, that in spite of the nice, new freeways, there are nothing but cars, cars, cars?

If you have gained this impression, you are absolutely right, and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District has statistics to prove it.

EACH MORNING 2192 vehicles are traveling into Oakland during commute hours from the Central Contra Costa area that were not doing so five years ago . . . this is an increase of 34 per cent over those using the highways in 1954.

And all these cars are using the Broadway low-level tunnel.

And just to show that Contra Costans are different, we showed the only increase in non-automobile commute traffic in the five Bay Area counties.

Where every other public transportation system showed a decline in the number of commuters using the facilities, commuters from our area increased by 85 per cent—there's 994 bus riders—over the 1954 total.

Van's off to Europe, and Talk About Enthusiasm!

Do you remember the greatest experience of your life? It would probably make a wonderful story!

Las Lomas High student Van Essayan was a shipboard passenger, Europe bound, as an American Field Service exchange student. Destination: Germany.

He believes this may be the greatest experience of his life. Take it from us—it is a wonderful story!

This is a personal letter from Van to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Essayan of 120 Camellia Lane, Walnut Creek. They have been kind enough to allow The Sun to reprint it.

We hope Van's later letters will be just as entertaining and exciting for the readers of The Sun, many of whom are his close friends.

Here we go—with Van on his boat trip to Europe!

Meine Leibe Familie in America,

It is still hard to believe that as I write this I am almost 5500 miles from home, or one-fourth the way around the world!

At night on deck, as I peer into the darkness and the fog, I feel very strange. The ship is traveling 16 knots an hour, straight ahead; there is nothing to see but water wherever I look.

I have much to do, I practice "alle tag," learned more in these few days than I have during the entire year at school! I do not have much time to write, there is so much to do. I sure did enjoy my stay in the Capitol, Washington is the nicest, friendliest city I have ever visited.

I went through the White House, the Treasury Department, the F.B.I. building, and met a senator and Congressman Baldwin. A real thrill! I plan to return there so that I can see everything I missed the first time, before I come home in September. It is a fascinating place!

Did I ever tell you about my trip from Washington to Montreal? My cab was late, there was no record of payment of fare at the reservations desk (they finally accepted my word) and our plane was grounded for 17 hours as unsafe.

We finally got on another, and flew on to Montreal, wonderful trip! Our stewardess who was German spoke both French and English delightfully. I went through customs with flying colors in Montreal, and then on to our hotel there.

The hotel was crowded, but acceptable—five in a room. We boarded our boat the next day. For some it was a sad departure, for their relatives were seeing them off. I had nobody, so spent my time investigating the ship, was too excited to feel unhappy about anything.

Everything on this boat is beautiful. It is all white and so new and clean. The crew is very nice to us. I have become quite attached to some whom I try to speak German to. In return, I am helping them with their English.

They are waiters, about 20 years old. I am really embarrassed, for they learned their English out of a book, not in school. They speak very well, considering . . .

Our time is not really our own, for there is more to do than there is time for. My schedule is somewhat different from that of the others—in our group of 20, each has two families to visit, so we are expecting to work harder than the others. There are over 800 students on this boat.

We all study from morning until midnight. First comes language study with a tutor, then orientation (according to country), jazz concert, folk singing, American problems, individual counseling, dancing, more study, lights out at 12:00.

JUNE 11, 1960

It is now another day. You cannot imagine the gratitude and appreciation I feel each day at being selected as an AFS student. There are not words invented yet to tell you what an experience this is.

However, as of today, I am a physical and mental wreck! It is an extreme strain to operate consistently on 4-5 hours sleep. Today I missed dinner for at two in the afternoon I fell asleep, and didn't wake up untitl after seven.

I have made many friends among the crew, and converse with them often. I am learning so much it is hard to believe! I am just bubbling with enthusiasm.

Today the boat started to sway in earnest, just like a cork in a river. We are now in the Atlantic, about 30 miles off Labrador. I am the clown of the ship, for I wear two shirts, a sweater, and my big jacket buttoned up to my neck (and you tried to talk me out of taking it!) On my tag it says I am from California—they believe it!

When I went out on deck, I nearly got blown off, ran for the door, and went below. Never again! In two days we will hit the Gulf Stream, and it will be warm again. Thank goodness!

As you remember, I did bring pills for seasickness from home, but I have made up mind not to take them. I have a theory I intend to prove—that seasickness is mostly psychosomatic. Today is not too bad, but I will see soon . . . It is now 2:00, we set our watches ahead an hour tonight (this cuts into my sleep) I am very tired, but must study.

JUNE 12, 1960

Ah, I feel terrible! The boat is moving up and down, left to right. Oh brother! This morning it was raining (not a storm). This is a strong ship, a reconverted U.S. aircraft carrier—small one. It is capable of enduring a hurricane which it has many times.

I hope it has seen its last one (at least while I am aboard!) Tonight I am going to bed early, I feel a little ill. Tonight I fell down stairs, learned an important lesson—hang on the railing in rough weather. I was not hurt, just bruised.

Lunch was interesting—I try everything. We had Fillet of Smoked River Eel, Herring Salad a la Bremen, and Calf's Liver Pie with Cumberland Jelly, Pickles. Being a steak and potatoes man, myself, this fish diet is not my dish! We had folk singing afterward, and will have every day from now on. It is fun! Also three dance bands each night. We have a jazz concert, too!

Today we had church and it was very nice. We have a choir and a student minister. We have a library where there is a coffee and tea time each day from 4 to 5. We have a snack (sandwiches at ten).

We have daily dinner announcements on the ship, "Deeneh will be served now!" Everybody used to join in and say it too! It was really funny. So now the announcement has changed. It is varied with, "Chow time you guys, come and get it!" Also, "Soup's on, you all!" All in a German accent.

This morning at 6 a.m. my room mate and I went to take our showers. No towels! I decided to go ask one of our friends in the crew so confidently I walked into what I thought were the men's quarters! It was the women's corridor! Que neat! I met un Frau and she spoke no English.

So I rattled away, asking for towels. After awhile she understood, and we got our towels! I felt quite good, my first really important crisis, and I was able to deal with the situation—successfully! I must stop now, I feel nicht so gut. I must get some more shots, not much fun even when you are well.

JUNE 13, 1960

This is such an experience! You can't possibly imagine! For years I have dreamed, and planned of going to Europe, and now at last it is happening. The day before yesterday I made a decision, a very important one. I decided that this is a once-in-a-lifetime experience, and I want to make the most of it. As a result I am spending every minute to the best advantage. I study about 10 hours a day, sleep five or less.

I practice German all the time, haven't yet attended the dances, no time. This is a short ten days, most important to the outcome of the success of my journey. I plan to be the best AFS student ever sent over or go down swimming to prove it. I am completely at rest with myself and the world. It is a highly desirable position to be in. I am not apprehensive about what might happen in the future, I am ready for whatever comes. This is really a great adventure!

JUNE 14, 1960

We are now over five days out, will arrive on Saturday in Holland. Weather is terrible, wonder what it is like in the winter. The crew says this is nothing! We are on B deck, and the waves are over the portholes (two feet higher than when ship is in port).

We have safety straps under the tables to hold on to. The instructions on the P.A. system are, "Grab the strap, avoid falling objects!" When those objects are your dinner, it is hard to follow directions!

Last night we thought it was bad, tonight I might wear my life belt to bed! This is not fantasy, it is impossible to walk even a few feet in a straight line. I finally broke down after several days of sheer agony and took the pills! They are terrific. Wish I'd taken them before this. Went up on deck to get some air for a minute or two—nearly froze to death. Boy, do I appreciate California!

Today I went to see my counselor who was to tell me all about my families. Well, out of this entire boat, whose papers didn't he have? They are probably still on somebody's desk back in New York. He was more concerned about it than I, however. As I do know I am expected, it will be more interesting to find out about them myself when I get to Germany. Weather is still worse, I must get some sleep now.

JUNE 15, 1960

Today is another stormy one outside. But inside it is neat! I am very excited now as the days become fewer between me and adventure—challenge. We have just finished part I of a four hour forum on Segregation. I have given up lunch from now on, so that I won't miss anything (I am in the first sitting). In order to hear everything I have to choose. It is worth it!

You can't imagine what it is like to hear a colored boy from Atlanta, Georgia, talk on the problem, followed by a girl from that same state speaking from the other side. Intermittently our staff summarizes--there are people from Pakistan, France, Norway, Sweden, Germany, and other countries, giving their opinions.

In an hour or so I will attend a meeting on education—if possible I will get on the student panel and present my views on the situation. Later we will discuss labor unions.

JUNE 16, 1960

Que neat. Esté es un gran viaje. Today is foggy, we are almost there. Saturday morning we embark for Germany. There is so much to do. We students to Germany leave the boat first, our baggage is all color coded. We do not stop at LeHavre, all will depart at Rotterdam. We will catch the train there.

Tomorrow we have a final test in German. We are getting last minute instructions in orientation class now.

The weather was good for awhile yesterday. The sun came out for awhile, but lots of wind. We had the most interesting forum yesterday on Segregation. We have four colored kids on board, and many, many Southerners. It was terrific! We heard each side's views, complete with southern drawl.

It was really good. It is something everyone should hear. I am sorry I didn't have enough tape, or I'd have recorded it.

Today I bought a subscription to the N.Y. Times, to be delivered to my home in Germany each week. It is the foreign edition. As far as money goes, I am doing very well. Hope I receive a shipment of film from home soon . . .

Last night we had a dance as usual. I didn't go, for I was practicing German with the Steward, friend of mine. His name is Rolff Grune, and he lives in Bremenhaven, Germany. This is the home port for this ship. His father works on the ship also.

He can't do much for he was wounded in World War II. We talked of the war (they lost everything) and of the German way of life. Very interesting. Last night I talked for four hours with him, and helped him with his work.

I guess the girls think me strange, because I don't seem very interested in social events aboard the ship. But, that can't be helped, there is just so much time . . .

JUNE 17, 1960

We are in the English Channel, are going into Rotterdam tomorrow. It is hard to believe that I am so far away from Walnut Creek. This is so neat! This might be the last time I have to write for a time, but I will whenever I can. We will go clear across Holland by train—windmills and everything! I can hardly wait.

Thank you so much for everything you all have done for me. I appreciate it beyond words. Please write often, I can always find time to read. I miss everybody, please excuse handwditing. I packed my suitcase and got everything in—this is amazing, since my suitcase is now twice as full as when I started!

Aufwiedersehn,

Van.

P.S. It's been a wonderful trip, great, unbelievable! Boy, if only evedybody could go. I hope more can do this every year, there should be more than one from each school. Don't worry about me, I am having fun, being good, and learning the ropes of life! Alle ist gut!

Plant Shade With Care For Summer at Its Best

In summer, a gardener's best friend is his shade garden. It is his refuge from the unrelenting glare of noonday sun. It soothes and refreshes him and lifts up his spirits.

But as every gardener knows, a patch of shade does not a shade garden make. There's a big difference between shade from a live oak on a barren foothill slope and shade as you find it in a fine city park or beside a rushing stream. The one gives you only brief respite while the others provide a sanctuary from heat.

FOR SUMMER living pleasure, it is most important to plan and plant your shade with care. Seek plant material such as ferns that creates cooling illusions, and don't hesitate to use any garden accessory that enhances the situation. A member of the California Association of Nurserymen is your best source of advice in such planning.

The surest and most effective plenty of water. Ferns, fuchsias, hydrangeas, begonias, and most shade-loving plants are only at their best with frequent watering.

Furthermore, the water itself is another cooling agent and necessary to the complete shade refuge. Use a fogging nozzle on your hose, sprinkler head. Its mist spray will be appreciated by you and your plants alike.

IF YOU DREAM of running water in your summer sanctuary, ask your C.A.N. nurseryman about small circulating pumps way to garden in shade is with and water bowls. Surround these or fix a permanent one to a bowls (or other water basins) with Baby's Tears or a similar matting ground cover and, for our money, you have the ultimate in summer living.

Suburbia Scribblings

In an Oriental Tea Garden

A GRACIOUS GARDEN PARTY, inspired by the traditional tea ceremony of Japan, was the manner in which Mother of the Deb Edith Bolman chose to honor her debutante daughter Sylvia last Saturday afternoon.

The popular Mrs. Robert Bolman, we'd like to tell you, used to write reams of copy for The SUN in a wkly. column which benefited Children's Hospital & one of her best bits was a ditty on her doings as Mother of the Bride . . . when her daughter Dodie became Mrs. Hans Stern. Maybe she'll do one as "Mother of the Deb."

BUT BACK to the Tea Leaves & ti leaves, both of which there was an abundance . . . the green tea served in a pretty ritual by Japanese girls gowned in kimonas & obis & the ti leaves afloat on the swim pool w/mountains of mums basking thereon.

More than 125 guests of the feminine contingent were greeted in the interior of the contemporary house on Van Tassel Lane . . . then out to the garden where the lawn party prevailed . . . Orchids received by the Bud of the Bolman family were uniquely displayed from small Japanese parasols hanging upside-down from under the eaves. Vicki Sexson, Debbie Smith, Joan Borden & Cecilia McGuire, some of the cotillion members to debut in December at the Winter Ball, were also on hand.

THE hostess & her dghtr. both in slim-line sheaths—Edith's blue silk print sporting a huge catelleya orchid, Sylvia's champagne & silver brocade shouldering brown & beige blooms. Petite Julie (Mrs. Sheldon) Allen in a shocking pink sheath . . . Her dghtr. Julie, recently schooled in Spain & soon bound for Occidental, in a pristinely-pleated white skirt worn w/a potpourri print house.

ACCENT ON YOUTH . . . w/the Young Set swapping vacation tidbits . . . Jule Noller chatting w/Pat Finn . . . Joyce Bailey & Joan Eberhart both in pastel sheaths . . . The pink frock on Peggy McCosker splashed w/green leaves. Sally Holabird, there w/her sister Carol, had yellow daisies tucked into her hairdo to match the daisies in her dress.

MORE for munching oriental cookies, sipping tea . . . Ruth Thompson, whose blue dress bouffant exactly matched her eyes . . . A real garden party frock, one bouffant w/red roses & a pink & green satin cummerbund on the blonde & petite Sylvia (Mrs. Robert) Cox who attended the party w/her dghtr. Susan. (The British lady looking right at home in the lawn party setting, this style of socializing so much a part of her native land.)

IN THE LANAI, an unusual Tree of Heaven, large bouquets of chrysanthemums massed together . . . A big black cartwheel straw for Mrs. Victor Cranston, ditto Shirley Crawshaw . . . A pearl pin the on the black chapeau of Anona (Mrs. Timothy) Colvin who arrived in a breathless state . . . Josephine Boysen & her Joanne . . . Carol Knudsen, Mary Ingram, Luzanne Lang under the gay lemon-yellow & coral parasols studding the garden.

Joan (Mrs. Blake) Calder, Mrs. James Freeman & Mrs. Chauncey Pond more local ladies saying Sayonara as the Saturday party concluded shortly after five.

On the State of the Family

IT WAS A FAMILY AFFAIR for members of Sleepy Hollow Park last Friday when they held their first "togetherness" night. Potluck buffet followed by square dancing & just plain Gab set the pattern for more such eves to follow . . .

IT WAS CHILLY & a good nite for Chili . . . Ethel Tyrrell (bless her heart!) sending over a yummy meat casserole even tho' she couldn't attend herself . . . The Jim Millers, Vern Louises, the Hal Caldwells w/talk of Tahoe, more of those carting bubbling hot dishes & tossed greens.

PARTY CHRMN. Gen Cantrill making introductions . . . She & her husband Cec to entertain at home tomorrow . . . having bid some 80 guests to a "blast" . . . Their son Eagle Scout Steve left Thurs. for Wallace Alexander Camp w/the largest-ever group of Scouts going from Orinda.

ON THE DANCE FLOOR . . . Vern & Dorothy Huddleson . . . Pool Park president Bill Leonard & his wife Noemi . . . the latter lady dancing the "Bunny Hop" . . . Al & Marg Kessler, Dr. Paul McChesney . . . Jeanette Fayram awhirl, Jim & Nancy Dupuis getting hysterical doing the Hokey Pokey.

FOR HARDIER SOULS, the Square dances w/Jack Clark doing "calling" duties . . . Here, Elva & Fred Rust . . . The Tom Howards . . . Fran Seaman w/summer plans to "shoot" the Grand Canyon . . . Midge York & her three fair lasses . . . All agreeing an "Encore" on this one—w/warmer weather, please!

ORINDA BRANCH will hold their annual mid-summer night's romp tomorrow 6-8 at the Lafayette rez of Sue & Ed Dougery . . . Winter Ball '59 deb Fredricka Lamb changed her name to Mrs. Edwin McLean, Jr., in a surprise ceremony in Reno last Friday. . .

After FOUR boys, what else but a girl & first daughter for the Gerald Breuners . . . & the Pablum circuit from Salt Lake brings word that former Orindans Dave & Joann Brunson have welcomed a THIRD son by name of John Beveridge.

HITHER & THITH . . . harriet ainsworth (that's how she ALWAYS signs her name, small letters!) & the Bill Marshalls more flocking to the Fair at Pleasanton . . . The Bill Stoys & their children had Georgia on their mind, so that's where they are—in Atlanta! The Hugh Riegers are packing up for their usual pilgrimage to Tahoe.

THE YOUNG in heart are from Malibu, the "Young Life" camp in Canada. Sue Schilling, Robin Wilson, Bob Harper, Micky Wilbur are some of those who waterskied against a backdrop of glaciers, & pines & snowcapped peaks & will never forget the wonderfully inspirational time had by all who attend this young people's christian camp . . . 8 miles by boat from Vancouver.

TED SCHILLING, Jr., farming, funning & driving the Big Cat tractor at Monte Vista Camp nr. Watsonville, will bring home Brazilian houseguests, two boys named Andre & Philipe.

FLASH! The Poupeneys recovered their new Siamese cat . . . & we're ready to give away Marion Long's bird Boo-Boo who committed a real booboo here when she chewed her way right out of a wicker cage from Hong Kong we bought just for the budgie's pleasure. Anyone desiring (free) a blue parakeet w/a mean disposition, please call me promptly!

Here's Looking 'em Over!

A BIG DAY for the 400 local children who traveled by bus for a day w/the Giants at Candlestick Park . . . June Merrill dressed to play "hookey" from the home-front & waving off Woody & Greg for the day . . . Walter Palmer, Gordy Massie, Bill Monahan & Keith Miller more of the baseball fans w/soda funds and lunchbags, climbing aboard bus . . . ditto Kent & Randy Williams . . . Rita Kingston saying So Long, fellas, then doing a fast run to home plate to get HERSELF off to the same place, same game.

Witnessing the worrying moms (we are as guilty as the rest!) June M. & I decided that Mothers are certainly the bane of a boy's existence. "Don't lost your money" . . . "Have you got your lunch?" "Did you, well, uh, never mind!" BOY, those boys were glad to get rid of us!

THINGS TO DO while waiting for an RX in the drugstore: Count the deodorants . . . Like the young Senator from Idaho said in his opening Convention speech, there are a million kinds. Well, almost! We counted 105 across the top of the long counter at Orinda Pharm.

ORINDA SIGHTEMS . . . When the moon came up over Moraga last Mon. nite it was a big fat red fireball. You'd think we were having a Heat Wavce . . . & I wish we were!!

TRAFFIC-stopper . . . a minature black poodle running recklessly back & forth Moraga Hwy., w/drivers of cars sitting patiently & understandingly as the obviously new owner gave merry chase.

GAY & GIDDY & Good for what Ails You is The Golden Hind's current offering—"The Boys From Syracuse" playing Fri. & Sat. nites at its SF Bella Pacific theater in Jackson Square . . . & It does ALMOST as much for you as "The Boy Friend" which is rolling mirthfully through its third year—there, on Sun. nites . . . On a balmy (?) summer's eve, don't you kind of long for a Larkspur Dancing Bowl (under the stars) like they have in Marin . . . The only trouble w/a sloping lawn, my son informs me, is that it's no good for playing Catch . . . or for that matter, sloping fathers w/sloping lawnmowers.

JUST SO your kids don't think it's just YOU, like mine do . . . Firecrackers, incl. sparklers are ILLEGAL in Orinda, punishable by fine, this special ordinance tailor-made for our high, dry & dangerous area. Now will somebody PLEEZ invent a fireless firecracker or SOMEthing w/ZING!?

MORE power to Accountant Bud Leiber's Girl Friday Cecile Ambler if she can take the recently installed automation machines & make you understand their intricate workings by comparing part of it simply, well, to a "meat grinder" . . . "You put the paper in here & all the information comes out THERE," dots & dashes . . . Now how waz zat again?

SUMMER DOLDRUMS in the kitchen? Not if you discover Spice Island's Chicken Seasoned Stock Base, a tablespoon stirred into cooked spinach, zucchini. It makes creamed cauliflower taste like angel wings—add the parsley touch, of course!

It originated w/Don Bradley in Orinda Store: For a summery touch, try a dessert of canned Nectarines over which, a crowning w/Cointreau!

SIGHTEMS: Frank Gillespie, the tennis pro, practicing his backhand on his Sleepy Hollow lawn w/his boy Doug throwing the ball . . . Doris Stillson w/a car full of boys, making her Tues. haul of same to & from the UC campus where her son works in the Micro Wave Dept. through the fortunate findings of Betty Chilton's Careers Exploration Course.

HELEN DREW, stopping to shop for dinner, after a cold day over a hot stove, banana bread, home-baked wheat bread & cokoies to her kitchen credit.

POOLSIDE PORTRAIT . . . Orinda Park: Terry Picard looking as relaxed as a pretty Polynesian maiden after three shangri-la weeks vacationing in Tahiti & the marvelous mountain-sea resort of Marya.

THE Pet Shop's weekly purchase was a deodorized skunk . . . & a sign on the bulletin board in the window advertises—"Rats for Free. Glamorous." Makes vermin . . . sound like ERMINE!

Among many of New Mexico's Navajo and Apache Indians, reports the National Automobile Club, a man's wealth and social status depend on the number of horses he owns.

Christian Science

The way of unfailing peace and satisfaction will be pointed out at Christian Science churches Sunday in a Lesson-Sermon entitled "Life," the first of a series this summer devoted to synonyms for God.

Christian Science churches in this area are located at 22 Orinda highway, Orinda; 1437 Locust Street, Walnut Creek, and in Concord at the corner of Grant and Park Streets.

Christian Science Society of Pleasant Hill holds its services at Kahrs Avenue and Boyd Road, Pleasant Hill, and Lafayette meets at 3422 Mt. Diablo Boulevard.

Opening the Scriptural selections to be read are these verses from Psalms (36:7-9): "How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. They shall be abundantly satisfied with the fatness of thy house; and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with thee is the fountain of life."

Correlative citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (516:9-12): "God fashions all things, after His own likeness. Life is reflected in existence, Truth in truthfulness, God in goodness, which impart their own peace and permanence."

Panel Discusses Stresses On Child

"Stresses on our Children Today" was the subject of a panel discussion sponsored by the Lafayette Health Council at the Stanley School auditorium recently.

Miss Jane Patorio, who introduced the moderator, recalled the origin of the health council and remarked the packed auditorium was an indication that the council had been correct in assuming the need for such a discussion.

MRS. DUNCAN KNUDSEN, moderator, introduced the panel, composed of Jean Neighbor, M.D., Sanford Sherman, M.D., Reverend Carl Thomas and Martin Tucker, Lafayette School principal.

Dr. Sherman discussed the physiological and medical background pertaining to factors that cause stresses and the natural stresses of children compared to the abnormal stresses the child of today faces.

Martin Tucker discussed stresses from an educator's viewpoint. Certain stresses are caused within a child, he told the group, by the parent's desire to see the child achieve the best. Tucker was also critical of the stresses placed upon young children in the competitive atmosphere of Little League.

Reverend Thomas enlivened his discussion of Christian love and parent faith relationship to their children with humor and anecdotes.

DR. NEIGHBOR recalled that the greatest amount of mental illness during the Korean War occurred during the lulls, rather than during attack or retreat. He compared the cold war of today as being much the same kind of waiting period.

Urging parents to remove as many stresses as possible from their children, Dr. Neighbor told the group that a parent's love insulates a child against stress and strain.

Motor vehicle mileage in the United States during 1959 totaled 700 billion, reports the National Automobile Club.

Del Valle PTA Hears Dr. Bradford

"Unification of school districts in California is inevitable," Dr. H. Frank Bradford told the Del Valle Council of PTA's Unification Study Group recently at Springhill School.

Dr. Bradford, who is director of administrative services for the county schools office, explained that all new state legislation leads to eventual unification. To all indications, he said, failure on the part of the electorate to approve a plan for unification will lead to further efforts to prepare plans that will be accepted by the voters.

Legislation last year called for the development of a "Master Plan" by County School District Organization Committees throughout the state, for unifying the districts within their county.

The Contra Costa County Committee has been studying the Acalanes High School area for this purpose for two years.

THE MOST RECENT action of the county committee in its study of this area, Bradford said, was the appointment of a subcommittee to prepare material for a consulting agency study, requested by Orinda School District at the last augmented committee meeting, January 20.

With William Freeman as chairman, the group is composed of a representative from each school district in the Acalanes area. The County Committee will wait for the completion of the consulting agency study before taking further action, Bradford added.

The PTA council group invited Bradford to speak as part of their exploration of unification as it applies to this area, Mrs. Robert Wilson, study group chairman said. The study was initiated by the council to bring a better understanding of unification to their membership within the proposed unified area.

Following the completion of their study, some time next year, the group plans to take a poll of PTA members to indicate preferences for various types of unification. The results of the poll will be communicated to the county committee and to the school districts within the proposed unified area.

THE GROUP has adjourned until September, Mrs. Wilson said, but will take up its studies at that time, with reports from proponents of vertical and horizontal unification.

Present for the meeting were Mrs. William Brumfield, Mrs. R. J. Hansen, Ray Poust, Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mrs. George Gessling, Mrs. James Lapsley, Mrs. Alex Karim, R. G. Winters, Paul Turner and Mrs. William Fisher.

Other members of the study group, which is composed of representatives of all the units in the Walnut Creek and Lafayette area, are, Mrs. J. Elliott Dunn, Mrs. Wayne Beardsley, Dr. F. W. Ackerman, Mrs. Harry Cameron, Mrs. Dwight Howard and David White.

School Growth Up But State Aid Down

Contra Costa County schools grew more this spring than last but received less state money for growth because of the new Collier Bill, reports County Superintendent Floyd Marchus.

The Collier Bill, operative for the first time in the fiscal year just closed, adjusts state equalization apportionments on the basis of the ratio of the county's assessed valuation to the state average of county assessment rates. Dr. Marchus said the State Board of Equalization has declared the Contra Costa County rate to be 8 per cent lower than state average.

FOR ATTENDANCE growth of 5962 over last spring, 22 of the county's 32 school districts received $561,254. This compares with $614,768 apportioned for growth of 5490 in the spring of 1959.

Since equalization funds are intended primarily to equalize by adding to the income of the poor district, the financially distressed district will be mose affected by the Collier Bill, commented the county superitnendent.

"Mt. Diablo Unified District was apportioned $165,212 for a growth of 2862 as compared with $247,556 for 2002 last year," explained Dr. Marchus. "The impact will be still greater as the Collier Bill becames fully operative in the coming year."

Other apportionment for growth this spring in local communities is as follows:

District	Growth	Apportionment
Alamo	125	$18,580
Danville	186	21,550
Lafayette	270	27,586
Moraga	127	12,884
Orinda	202	27,895
Walnut Creek	199	16,924
Acalanes High	410	60,975
San Ramon High	105	11,909

Tough Oleanders Are Eye-Catchers In Hottest Spots

You'd have to look long and hard to find a climate too hot for oleanders. Most members of the California Association of Nurserymen are convinced that these tough customers would grow in a blast furnace.

Do you doubt it? Then hop in a car and ride up or down our state. Oleanders have been widely used to landscape freeways in some of our hottest counties, where they show their cheerful faces to one and all.

IT IS HEAT, in fact, which makes an oleander thrive. They are sparse bloomers in some of our coastal climates. Don't shy away from them if you garden in a fog belt, however, since the foliage itself is worth growing for screens and hedges.

At their best, oleanders are real eye-catchers. They are best used in hedge-rows, along a drive or fronting the road on a country property. Their value as single specimen shrubs, however, is traditional to California, and the many different varieties enhance their worth for this use.

IF PINK is your color, try Pink Beauty or Seely Pink, both of them large singles in good clear pink. Mrs. Roeding is a salmon pink oleander with double flowers—very popular. The best white is Sister Agnes, a single, while the reds include Compte Barthelmy, a double, and Jannoch, a single. The rose-red oleander that gets such a big play in all areas is the single variety, Cherry Ripe.

To a variety they are all robust bloomers, even drought conditions. So pick your favorite colors and plant them in full knowledge that your investment will pay a maximum dividend with a minimum of attention.

Indian Guides Family Picnic Is Tuesday

All member families of the Mount Diablo Y Indian Guide Federation are invited to participate in the family picnic to be held at Little Hills Ranch on Tuesday.

The ten top tribal skits from the four weekend dad and son camp-outs at Gualala will vie for federation championship at the 8 p.m. campfire program. A court of awards and induction of new federation officers will highlight the program.

The swimming pool and play area at the ranch will open at 3:30 p.m. Tribes will arrange their own potluck dinners. Some barbecue areas will be available and the program is expected to close at 9:15 p.m.

In a poll of candidates for Mrs. America of 1960 it was learned that eight out of ten had saved through United States Savings Bonds to buy their homes.

Many Vegetables Can Be Planted Now for Autumn

These are items for local gardeners to check this week:

A good list of vegetables can be planted now for fall, many of them as easy-to-transplant from nursery flats.

Give Azaleas and Camellias another feeding of acid food if it has been over a month since the last feeding.

How often should you spray roses? For mildew, before it shows up—for aphis and other pests, the day they do, say most nurserymen. Some rosarians follow a weekly spray program.

Begonias are shade plants, but don't overdo it. Deep, dense shade makes for spindly, lacklustre plants that often drop their buds.

Spiking a shabby and compacted lawn usually makes all the difference. And spiking is easiest with modern equipment.

ONE OF the United States' biggest swimming threats in the Summer Olympics to be held in Rome next month is native Orindan George Harrison, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrison. The 21-year-old Harrison holds four American swimming records, including the 400 yard freestyle mark, and he recently set a new world's record in the 400 meter individual medley.

Orindan Making Try for Second Olympic Squad

A 21-year-old native Orindan will leave Monday on the first leg of a trip which may prove he is one of the world's greatest swimmers.

George Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harrison of 7 Camino Lenada, Orinda, has been training furiously at Palo Alto since early last month for the U. S. Olympic swimming trials to be held in Detroit August 2 through 4.

If Harrison qualifies for the Olympic team, and there seems to be little doubt he will, Harrison will gain the honor of placing on the American team for the second consecutive time. He swam in the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne while still an Acalanes High School senior.

Now a senior pre-medical student at Stanford University, George holds four national swimming records, including the 400 yard freestyle mark and at least one butterfly time.

Several weeks ago, he reached a new zenith in his career by topping the world's record in the 400 meter individual medley. His time of 5:05.2 eclipsed the previous standing mark by nearly eight seconds.

Walnut Creek Defeats Orinda in Legion Play

Martinez defeated Concord in a close, 4-3, game last Sunday and jumped back into the lead after being tied up with the Concord club last week.

Martinez took a 3-1 lead in the first inning and added the winning counter in the eighth. Concord made their bid but fell short when they scored a pair in the seventh.

IN OTHER SUNDAY games, Orinda playing at Walnut Creek dropped a 7-3 decision as Carl Just set them down with three hits while the winners collected 13.

Errors were the order of the day as each team collected five.

The big blows were home runs by Walnut Creek's Bob Samuels and Roger Guichard.

Bill O'Toole and Dave Clark collected two hits apiece for Walnut Creek while Bob Williams had two safeties for Orinda.

EL CERRITO shut out El Sobrante, 7-0, while outhitting them, 15-6. El Cerrito also led in errors, 2-1.

El Cerrito was ahead 1-0 going into the eighth when they added six insurance runs.

Richmond unloosed a 19-hit and 17-run barrage against North Richmond. Five errors hurt the losers' cause while the winners had one.

IN SATURDAY'S games, Concord broke loose with 14 hits, 12 runs and six errors to topple Rodeo who wound up with eight hits, six runs and two errors.

Walnut Creek lost a close, 3-2, decision to El Sobrante as each club collected five hits and committed two errors.

El Cerrito nailed Orinda, 10-8, while outhitting them, 12-11.

Standings as of Thursday:

Martinez: 10 wins, 1 loss; Concord: 9 wins, 2 losses; San Pablo: 7 wins, 3 losses; El Cerrito: 7 wins, 4 losses; Richmond: 7 wins, 4 losses; Lafayette: 4 wins, 6 losses; El Sobrante: 4 wins, 6 losses; Orinda: 4 wins, 7 losses; Walnut Creek: 3 wins, 8 losses; Rodeo: 2 wins, 7 losses; North Richmond: 1 win, 10 losses.

A MESSAGE TO THE PUBLIC
WE APPEAL TO YOUR SENSE OF FAIR PLAY!
We have been forced to picket the One Hour Martinizing Cleaners, 1385 Main Street, Walnut Creek, in order to get a working agreement.
This firm has a long record of trying to "get by" with wages and conditions considerably less than those negotiated with other Drycleaning Employers in this area.
For Example
1. This firm does not pay wages negotiated under a Union contract.
2. This firm does not grant Union negotiated vacations.
3. This firm does not pay Union negotiated holidays.
4. This firm refuses to cover their employees for hospital and medical care under a joint Union and Management plan.
5. This firm refuses to provide pension benefits under a joint Union and Management plan.
An enlightened Management and Labor spirit has long prevailed in the Drycleaning industry in this area. This firm, however, seems to desire to operate under conditions that other employers recognized as unfair long ago.
We think it is unfair not only to employees, but also to other Drycleaning employers.
All other Drycleaning employers in Walnut Creek pay Union rates and meet Union conditions. Therefore, we have taken this action to prevent a breakdown of our members' wages and working conditions.

Here's Your Chance to Give Us Some Advice!

Instead of solving all the problems of the world, as editorials are wont to attempt to do, this particular editorial is going to ask a question — one that we hope you might have an answer to, or at least share with us your opinion.

What does The Sun, as a newspaper, do when a personnel problem or an embarrassing situation occurs in one of our schools?

Do we, as a newspaper which is dedicated to keeping the public informed, just ignore these things? That, of course, is just what the school districts would like to have us do.

It is only human on the part of the administrators to want such things left out of the papers. And certainly administrators are human beings.

BUT THIS WOULD not solve the problem. It would merely keep it quiet.

We live in an area which is full of intelligent people, men and women who are used to facing unusual situations and who are used to making decisions. These people — and that includes you — have the right to know, and should know, what is going on.

We have, for the most part, fine faculties, fine teachers. We feel that with a forthright, honest approach, most problems can be solved before they become dangerous.

But what the parents in a community do if they feel that there is a problem in their school district — a problem involving, perhaps, personalities. If they bring them up at a school board meeting, they immediately become a matter of public record, and invariably, end up in the newspaper.

If they do not bring them up at a meeting, but take "a couple of administrators or board members aside," then they are not really acting in the public interest because a great majority of the community never knows what is happening.

OBVIOUSLY PARENTS should express themselves, and equally obviously it should be done at a public meeting. Everybody concerned will just have to use good judgement when these matters come up — that includes school trustees, parents, teachers, and the newspapers, including The Sun.

Generally there is a feeling of good will among the members of the community and the school personnel, and the schools and the newspapers. Nobody is out for "scalps."

OUR YOUNGSTERS have been getting a fine education — perhaps the best in the world. Our school plants are excellent. And for the most part, the atmosphere in our schools is highly conducive to learning.

But our schools and their people are not above criticism. Nor is The Sun or anybody else for that matter. Thus there will be times when criticism is deserved, and should honestly be given.

Sometimes it is better to clear the air of these matters and get rid of them before they can become serious enough to cause real trouble. If such things as personnel problems or dissatisfaction with administrative conduct are left alone by parents, they boil along beneath the surface until they finally explode violently.

Such an explosion is not good for either the district or the youngsters.

BUT AGAIN, the handling of such matters in a public newspaper is a difficult thing indeed. All we can suggest is that an honest effort to do what is right, on all parts, should be brought to any meeting where such a problem arises, and then the chances of an equitable solution will be greatly improved.

The Qualifications, Too....

Probably one of the most influential agencies, when it comes to owning your own home in this county is concerned, is the Contra Costa County Planning Commission.

This commission has a difficult job to perform, and it is the kind of a job that usually leaves somebody with ruffled feelings. Of course, the decisions of the planning commission can always be appealed to the board of supervisors . . . and frequently are.

The 1959-60 Grand Jury had an interesting recommendation to make concerning the planning commission. This was:

"There should be an outside group brought in at the earliest possible time to review the functions, operations and organization of the planning department.

"THIS SURVEY could be conducted by an organization such as the Public Administrative Service of Chicago or the Bureau of Public Administration of the University of California.

"Such a study would be of immeasurable value to the planning staff, commissioners and board of supervisors in approving or altering our planning policies."

We think this sounds like a pretty solid idea. Especially when you consider how vital planning is to our orderly growth and development, and just how much there is to be done in the years to come.

It may seem like all the lots are developed, and that things are "pretty well ruined" already, but this is far from the truth.

IN THE PAST, The Sun has had occasion to recommend that an efficiency organization be called in to study some governmental department, and in the past, the Grand Jury has also made similar recommendations.

We would like to call to the board of supervisors' attention, though, that they have a very able man on their staff — a man who is used to taking such surveys of just such departments as the planning department.

This man is Country Administrator J. P. McBrien, who has a tremendous background in just this kind of work. Actually, much of his experience which gave him the qualifications for his present job came from this sort of work.

From the standpoint of county government, we feel that Mr. McBrien is qualified to walk into any department in the county, do a survey job, and come up with a list of recommendations.

OF COURSE, AS county administrator,, this puts him in a rather difficult position, and certainly his hands are tied in some respects.

We do feel, however, that if the board of supervisors feels that a department needs surveying, that Mr. McBrien is capable of doing an excellent job . . . or at least, certainly he could do any kind of preliminary survey that the board might feel would indicate the need or lack of it for further investigating of the department.

ACTUALLY, ONE of the most valuable tools the board of supervisors has is Mr. McBrien and the members of the board should use his capabilities more than they have been.

He has an excellent background and a proven ability — in fact, is the kind of man that we need in county government, and it behooves the board to use his talents while they are available.

And Thanks for the Lunch...

By DICK OSBORN

United States Steel Company gave me a free lunch and an insight into my tax bill last Friday, and I thought it might be worthwhile to pass along to you.

You see, out at the Columbia-Geneva works in Pittsburg, U. S. Steel has just erected a brand spanking-new $10 million continuous annealing line.

Not to be technical, you understand, but this dandy five-story hunk of equipment prepares cold-rolled steel for tin plating, after which you tear it apart with a can opener and help yourself to the beans.

Incidentally, I gained a new respect for the lowly tin can after this little visit.

ANYWAY, TO GET back to the point. The steel people conducted a tour of this small section of their huge plant so that we ignorant laymen could see just what they are up to.

Believe me, it's plenty!

The tour was extremely enjoyable, and quite thorough. The Sun, not having a full-fledged business page, is not equipped to go into the ramifications of the new annealing line, nor to comment on the proposed "hot strip" mill that Columbia-Geneva intends to build one of these days (when they can afford it.)

But all the time that we were rubbernecking through this tremendous plant, the question kept lurking in the back of my mind . . . "I wonder what my tax rate would be at home if industries like this weren't carrying a good portion of the county tax load."

THERE HAS BEEN a lot of hue and cry during the years that I've toiled over a typewriter in this sunny valley about industry, light industry, "clean industry," etc., and it has kind of turned out that industry is a dirty word in Central Contra Costa County.

Now, nobody is suggesting that Columbia-Geneva, (or anybody else, for that matter) erect a huge steel plant right in the middle of, say, Moraga, but how about a little, tiny, spick and span electronics shop?

Anyhow, that $10 million addition to the steel plant out in Pittsburg didn't even make a dent on their available space, to say nothing of the room they've got for expansion.

I WOULDN'T WANT to be the tax appraiser who has to make a guess as to the assessed valuation of that plant.

And I wouldn't want to get my hosts into any trouble, either. (Assessor, please note: steel officials did not give the valuation of the new continuous annealing line. That was a figure arrived at with a pair of dice, a chewed pencil and another reporter.)

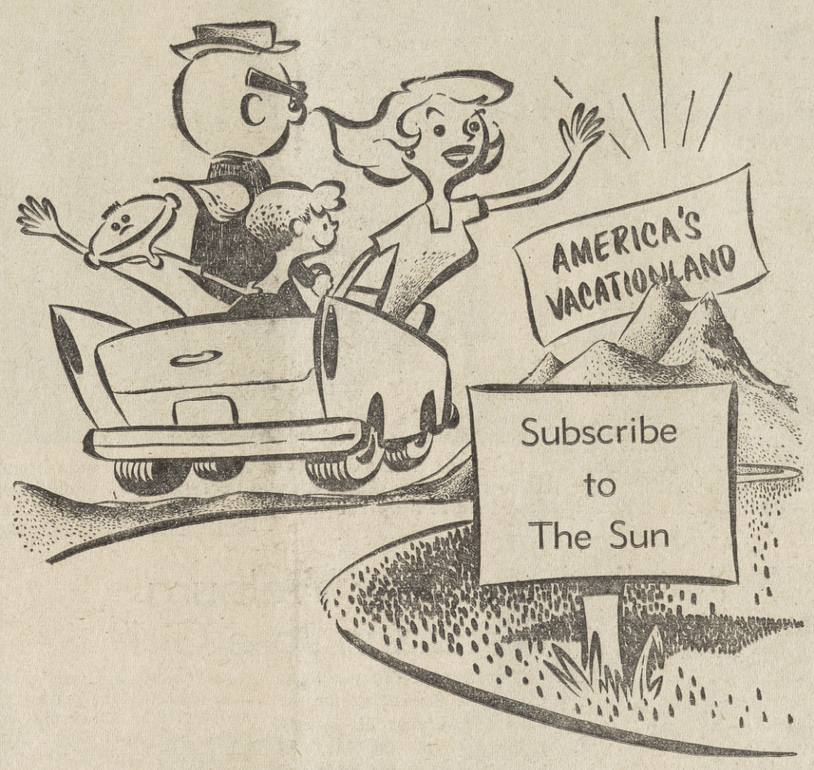
Fellow citizens, take note. Next time somebody suggests industry in our part of the country, don't run. Don't hit the person. Ask first, what kind? Then, if it appears that it will not involve pile drivers, pitch in with an invitation blank.

THERE MIGHT BE a little inconvenience, but I'll bet the pain won't be half as bad as that sharp, shooting twinge you get when you open the annual tax bill!

And oh yes, have a little respect for the next tin can you open. U. S. Steel went to a lot of work to put it together for you.

And you gentlemen out at U. S. Steel in Pittsburg, Thanks for the lunch!

Song of the open road...



We Like It Here... Who Took the 'Child' OUT of Childhood...?

By MARIE MONAHAN

Like the old saying goes (& Heavenly Days, they're even afraid to quote that correctly anymore!)—"No more pencils, no more books, no more teacher's dirty looks . . ."

This being mid-vacation, it's Mom's dirty looks they're due for NOW. Just about ripe for it.

When the July issue of Woman's Day came up with an article "101 Tricks & Treats—How to keep your children happily occupied during the long summer months," we leaped upon it like a starved lioness!

The article is full of wonderful ideas & the children poured thoughtfully over it, too!

Many of the good old games were introduced again. The same ones we have suggested over & over & over (Why can't you play Ghosts or "Quietly, Please?")

The children, however, have revised the rules.

Instead of Kick the Can, they get more glee out of kicking each other.

Instead of making parachutes out of Daddy's old handkerchiefs & watching them float through the air, they filled balloons with water, covered THEM with the white squares & dropped them out the bathroom window, kerplosh! on the mother cat below.

Marble Golf looked good & they couldn't wait to construct a course!

But instead of building it as suggested, they dug up half the begonia bed & put in Pee Wee Golf. Since the course slopes, father was furious over his missing new golf balls. Not to mention the begonias.

THE KIDS just don't have all their marbles these days. Not to mention Jacks . . . (Now THERE was a game. Kept us busy for hours on the back stairwell.)

But they do have Badminton Rackets & birds to match. So I suggested cheerfully, "How about a game of Badminton?"

"Awwwww . . . we can't play Badminton," they whine . . . "We don't have any net!"

Well, I never though of it that way. When I was a child, I thought as a CHILD & we played a rowsing game of Badminton without even RACKETS!

Now I am grown, I still think as a child. So to a wild assortment of boys on the back hill, I holler (Ooooh, how I holler!!) "Why don't you all play Safari, you know, like Africa?" Well, talk about dirty looks . . .

"Howdayameansafari?" they eye me suspiciously.

You know, Sheena of the Jungle. Get the helmets, the knapsacks, the rifles." They still eye me strangely. "Pretend you are carrying Sheena, the White Goddess, across a river raging with crocodiles."

Well, THAT whipped up some enthusiasm. Had them absolutely wide-eyed!

But they never DID get around to playing safari . . . & do you know why? They wanted ME to be Sheena & well, at this point, somebody just MIGHT feed me to the crocodiles!

We used to play Cops 'n Robbers. But I suppose if that kind of play made a comeback, it would't be so good. Semantic-wise, I mean.

BACK in our old backyard, we played Cowboys & Indians. An imaginary covered wagon train sat helplessly circled by Indians yipping it up for our scalps. It was so realistic, I accidentally stuck an icepick into my leg once. But I suppose semantic-wise, I really shouldn't even mention it. Sometimes I think we've taken the "child out of Childhood . . .

The article has 101 suggestions & I'll bet I know what that extra one is:

MOTHER: If the other 100 suggestions don't work, take TWO aspirin, lock the kids in the closet & forget it if you think you'll get any rest till they're back in school!

Letters to The Editor

MORAGA PLAN

Dear Editor:

Those of us who attended a meeting of the Contra Costa County Planning Commission at Martinez on the evening of July 5, were astounded to hear this body of selected public officials promulgate a concept of government which has such abhorrent implications that I think it should be publicized to the maximum extent possible.

During the course of a hearing regarding zoning in the Moraga area, one of the county planning commissioners, a Mr. Young made the statement: "In our planning, WE ARE NOT NECESSARILY REQUIRED TO CONFORM TO THE WISHES OF THE MAJORITY. As a matter of fact, deference to the opinions of the majority is only one of 12 criteria which a planning board must consider when establishing their plans."

This statement is so contemporary to our democratic principles, and to the ideas that have been installed in us since the inception of our government, that I consider it sufficient basis for impeachment of the official concerned.

Are we to understand that elected officials consider the functioning of their administrative organization to have precedence over the majority desires of the people to whom they are supposed to owe allegiance?

Can any one, or any 12 directives appearing in the zoning ordinance have more force than the desires of the people? Our constitution states that all governing powers are derived from the consent of the governed; if this is so, how can any elected body state that their ultimate responsibility is not to the people, but to an ordinance?

The entire idea is so repugnant to me that I hope you will give this matter considerable publicity.

P. N. GARAY.

ADULT EDUCATION

Dear Editor:

In regard to the editorial article and letters in the July 1st issue of The Sun regarding adult education, it seems to me that there is no reason why any course that is taught to high school students in our high schools in the daytime, at no expense to the student, should not be taught to their elders in the evening, with or without nominal ($2 fee.)

The availability of free public education is presumed to be one of the essential characteirstics of a country like ours and if cake decorating instruction, for example, is offered to teenagers as a part of the regular high school curriculum, it might be presumed that the same course would benefit similarly inclined students after they had reached adulthood and wanted to take it in night school.

I think the question should be whether a given course should be offered at all — either to adults or high school students — rather than whether adults should pay more to get the same instruction simply because they are adults.

Just Keep Calm and You'll Survive Your Camping Trip

By CONNIE PIKE

Where did everybody go?

I don't know about everybody, but a good many people have gone camping. And that's fine. It's worthwhile to see beautiful scenery and smell fresh air.

But when they return, I wish they'd keep their experiences to themselves. Like operations, camping is something people love to tell you about.

Sunburned and rugged

They come home sunburned and rugged-looking and tell you how they packed in at Desolation Valley.

"A pack trip!" your husband exclaims, his eyes lighting up. "Now I call that the real outdoor life."

The next thing you know he's gone out and bought a tent, because for him such talk is entirely real. "I can see it now," he murmurs, going off into a land of scrub brush and possible uranium strikes. In his mind he has just put up the tent, made camp according to the best Scout tradition and is ready for a morning of trout fishing.

For me it's more like reading the adventures of Huckleberry Finn.

The best thing to do is take the children and go home to mother, but you have to be fast.

You're on your way

Should you find yourself en route to some desolate area, try to get him lost. With a little luck you'll end up at a motel with hot showers. Failing that, as you approach your destination, insist on camping in one of the more developed areas. They're plenty rugged, but there are some conveniences.

No hot water in your tent or cabin, but you can usually find a cold water washroom within a mile or two.

Try to set up camp near a restaurant or store. After two days you'll be famished for something to eat that isn't charred or underdone. Also, electric outlets are helpful if you like coffee the first thing in the morning and don't mind being ostracized by the real campers.

Making camp

Making camp will use up whatever's left of your first day. The tent is strictly man's work — you don't know that colorful language. And when it's up, never criticize the way it sags. It hangs limp and looks like a wigwam made of soggy tissue, but he is proud of it.

Get the washroom spotted while it's still daylight. You'll be astonished at the number of trips required daily — I counted 20 round trips for the five of us. The patter of our little feet could be heard continuously. Back home you don't notice, but when it's a half-mile hike, it hits you.

This count excludes baths.

On keeping clean

Here we come to a rule of thumb about baths. For the most part exclude them. This will keep the children happy, and it's nearly impossible to keep clean anyway.

We tried showers the first day. By the time the others have finished, the water is cold and chilly breezes are whistling through the cracks of the washroom.

Just shut off the water and dress. You'll be wiser if not cleaner.

Among the more exciting features of camping are animals. You know all those jokes people tell about the bears? And the rattlesnakes? They're not jokes when you meet one on the path to the washroom. Soon you'll come to like being dusty.

And then sleeping. After you've cooked three meals and washed blackened pots and hammered your laundry out on some stones, you're allowed to go to bed.

But not to sleep. The children are afraid bears will break into the tent, your husband is already snoring, so you feel obliged to stay awake and defend the little ones. You can't sleep on the hard ground anyway.

No matter what they guarantee, air mattresses do go down.

Fun in the sun

Next morning you get up red-eyed and run screaming into the lake, then you run out shivering and dress for the day.

Hiking is fun for about ¼ mile and after that it's all uphill. Then you can try water skiing. The children rise gracefully on the skis and your husband assures you, "Absolutely nothing to it." But when you take courage in hand, you ski around on the seat of your swim suit while everybody laughs.

And that night life they talk about. Since it's not particularly suitable for the children, you skip it in favor of going early to bed. On the flat air mattresses. Remember, you need your rest to cope with the coming day.

There are lovely places to camp within a few hours' drive — Lake Tahoe, Yosemite, Santa Cruz. You need only one or two carloals of equipment to have sun-filled days and cold clear nights.

So go ahead if that's what you like.

But don't say I didn't warn you.

Mrs. J. Gordon Ainsworth Is ALWAYS Busy!

She Loves Her Work and Her Talent Serves Many

By JEAN JERNIGAN

Once there was a little girl who dearly loved to write. One of her first creative efforts was the publication of a newspaper for animals.

Even at an early age, she loved people, animals, everything, with a wide awake intensity and natural curiosity.

TODAY, this same little girl, now grown, has degrees from Ohio Wesleyan University and Columbia University's Pulitzer School of Journalism. She has an impressive record of journalistic achievement and has the formal title of Public Relations Consultant.

Those who know her, however, stitll find the same happy warmth and love of life that she had as a child, for she is Mrs. J. Gordon Ainsworth of 73 La Cuesta, Orinda, known as Harriet to her many friends around the world.

After finishing her education, Mrs. Ainsworth went to Portland, Oregon where she went to work as the first girl reporter for the top newspaper in Portland.

HIGHLY successful in her career, she found her interest in people leading her to more and more public information work. Finally she opened her own public information office in Portland and pursued this career until given her commission in the United States Navy in May of 1942.

As a naval public information officer with NATS, Mrs. Ainsworth travelled all over the world, dealing with top secret material, high government officials and diplomats.

TYPICAL of her adventurous spirit and wonderful sense of humor, she recalls most vividly her assignment at Point Barrow.

"I was not sure that I could remain overnight," she recalled, "as there were no quarters for women. However, as our plane landed on the ice, we were met by a marching band of Sea Bees, who escorted me by dog sled to the dispensary which had been vacated and made ready for my use.

"As the first woman to go to Point Barrow, I was also the first female to be initiated to the "Top of The World Club." In deference to my sex, one of the iniation requirements was waived, but I did have to eat a raw frozen fish.

"IT REALLY wasn't bad, you rub the fish with warm oil and then eat it. There is another thing I ate, though, that is truly delicious and I wish we could get it here. Pickled whale blubber is just out of this world!"

A military plane crash in California, a change of orders and missed travel connections resulted in the meeting of two naval officers who were to become Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Ainsworth. Eventually, after their discharges, he went to New York and she left for a writing trip to the Pacific for 35 newspapers.

AFTER their return from journeys in the opposite directions, they made their first home in San Francisco, where their son Jay, 13, and daughter, Adeline, 12, were born. The Ainsworths have lived in Orinda for the past 10 years.

As mother and homemaker, Mrs. Ainsworth has been a den bother and Brownie leader, served with or on the boards of the Orinda School Parents Club, Orinda Nursery School and the Community Music School (San Francisco).

She helped to organize the Diablo Valley Kappa Alpha Zeta Club and serves periodically as their public information officer; has been a member of Seattle Junior League; serves with Poplar Branch of the Children's Hospital; is an honorary member of the Women's Board of the Valley Art Center and serves with the Central Contra Costa Volunteer Bureau.

THESE WORTHY activities are just a drop in the bucket of Harriet Ainsworth's useful life. She teaches mosaics each year for the Valley Art Center.

"It is wonderful to see what people with no previous experience can do," she remarked. "They find they can express themselves creatively and find much pleasure in their work. I look forward to teaching these classes."

In addition, Mrs. Ainsworth never ceases to write. She recently completed an 80 page book for Aid To Needy Children Division of the State Department of Social Welfare.

CAPABLE OF turning her hand, or typewriter, to any subject and relating it in an understandable way, she recently did an article for national distribution on the hyperbolic paraboloid building erected in Lafayette by the National Hydraulics & Electronics firm.

Perhaps the work closest to Mrs. Ainsworth's heart is her work as public information coordinator for the American Cancer Society. She became interested in this work about two years ago after the death of a relative from the disease.

"DURING campaign time I usually spend two days a week for three months, working to aid the campaign. The rest of the year I spend a day a week working to support the research program.

"If people would only realize the importance of regular checkups, so many lives could be saved. If cancer is caught in time, very often the victim can be saved.

"One of my year round duties is to arrange for the showing of educational films on cancer. The purpose is to educate the public into seeking medical care before it is too late. One out of every three women who die of cancer could be saved if they had been checked in time."

HOME IS A happy place for the Ainsworths, enlivened by an Australian Shepherd, two Siamese cats and a horse. "It still gives me a start to look out the kitchen windows and see a horse staring me in the face," laughed Mrs. Ainsworth.

She loves to cook and said, "I do all kinds of odd ball things, last night we had a bass salad. It was good, too, but the rest of the family seems to have a cultural lag in this department."

TOGETHER the family likes to hunt, sail and water ski. "When we leave for our vacation at Clearlake this summer, we will trail a motor boat for water skiing, have a sailboat strapped on top of the car and Adeline's horse trailing the trailer."

Shared fun, and shared interests, he is manager of public relations services for Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation, has created a happy home life for Mrs. Ainsworth who gives so much of her warmth, humor and talent to others.

THERE'S ALWAYS time for family fun at the J. Gordon Ainsworth's Orinda home, even though Mother is a public relations consultant and professional writer. Here, daughter Adeline and her beloved horse stop for a friendly chat with Mrs. Ainsworth.

Alan Roy Walburg Weds San Jose Girl

Church of the Valley in Santa Clara was the setting for the June 19 wedding of Beverly Jean Jung and Alan Roy Walburg. Parents of the bride and groom are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Jung of San Jose and Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Walburg of Meadowview Road in Orinda.

Bouquets of white gladioli and candelabra graced the altar for the double ring ceremony conducted by the Reverend John C. Carroll.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a traditional floor length gown of ivory silk bombazine, fashioned with a basque waist and three-quarter length sleeves. Seed pearls trimmed the yoke Chantilly lace which was repeated in an apron effect on the skirt.

A bustle and large bow added accent to the back of the gown which featured a chapel train. A pearl crown secured her shoulder length bouffant veil of silk illusion, and the bride carried a shower arrangement of lily of the valley, stephanotis and a white orchid.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Arlene Jung, who wore coral silk organza over taffeta, featuring a scoop neckline and bouffant skirt. She added a matching headpiece with a demi-veil.

In the role of best man was Donald Walburg, brother of the groom. Escorting guests to their seats were Sewell Hatcher, Oakland; Ralph Parker, San Jose; and Ronald Giardina, a fraternity brother, of Sunnyvale.

"I Love You Truly" and "Because" were the vocal selections offered at the beginning of the service by Evaldo Dal Poggetto, Bay Area tenor. While the bridal couple knelt at the altar he sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the San Jose Woman's Club.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jung wore a beige sheath of silk organza over taffeta. She added accessories of beige and green. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue chiffon dress with lace trim, with which she wore blue and beige accessories. Each of the mothers pinned on a white orchid corsage.

For her going away ensemble, the new Mrs. Walburg selected a silk print in shades of beige and brown.

Both the newlyweds are graduates of San Jose State College, Beverly being affiliated with Chi Omega sorority and Alan a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. Since her graduation, the groom has been employed by Moore Business Forms in Emeryville.

Oriental Garden Party Honors Winter Debutante

By MARIE MONAHAN

Like delicate windbells in a Kyoto breeze, Japanese teacups tinkled in tune last Saturday in the Sleepy Hollow gardens of the Robert Bolmans when Mrs. Edith Bolman honored her debutante daughter Sylvia with an Oriental garden party.

Sylvia will curtsy with the 1960 Cotillion at the Hill Branch-sponsored Children's Hospital benefit, the Winter Ball, in December.

The afternoon tea, attended by some 125 women, mainly mother and daughter duos, was genuinely Japanese in flavor. Right down to the last green tea leaf served in authentic ceremonial style by kimono-clad Japanese maids who circulated the throng sashed in obis and shod in silken gato slippers.

The orchid tree, a traditional part of each debutante party, was given a new twist here . . . Japanese parasols, sprayed blue to match the outdoor iron furniture, hung upside-down from under the eaves of the contempory house, serving as holders of the beautiful blooms bestowed on the honored "bud."

For her daughter's party, Edith Bolman chose a slim-lined silk sheath patterned in hues of blues, a magnificent orchid pinned to her shoulder. Sylvia Bolman greeted her contemporaries and their mothers wearing a champagne and silver brocade dress with a corsage of brown and beige orchids pinned to the brief sleeve.

TEA CUPS a-tinkle . . . The mother of the deb scarcely stepping into her slippers when the first guests arrived . . . Mrs. Sheldon Allen and her daughter Julie among the early guests . . . Shirley (Mrs. Fred) Crawshaw under a broad-brimmed hat . . . From Danville, Mrs. Claude Andreasen with her daughter Claudia . . . Mrs. Walter Boysen arriving with Joanne.

The garden vivid with color, large umbrellas of lemon-yellow and coral dotting the lawn . . . Floral arrangements floating on the pool with ti leaves the vernal bases for brilliant blooms of mums in gold and browns. Over from Happy Valley, Mrs. Chauncey Pond. Many compliments for her voluminous garden party straw . . . Shelley Pond, who made her debut last December, greeting friends . . . Carol and Sally Holabird, Carol Knudsen, Mary Ingram, Susan Cox some of the fair young guests.

Luzanne Lang with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Lang, who wore a feminine flowery hat, and Cynthia Neuhaus, home from Wellesley, with her mother, Mrs. Robert Neuhaus of Orinda. The distaff side of three Freeman families represented—Mrs. William Freeman, Mrs. Miller Freeman of Lafayette, Mrs. James Freeman of Orinda. Mrs. Frank Dunn and her daughter, Mrs. Harvey Lowthian Jr., admiring the tree of heaven and the chrysanthemum bouquets used with a lavish touch on the lanai . . . The deb's sister, Gay (Mrs. Hans) Stern, making introductions . . . Mrs. James Percy of Pleasant Hill, Mrs. Timothy Colvin of Orinda among those bidding Sayonara at the close of the party.

P. H. Juniors Have Dance

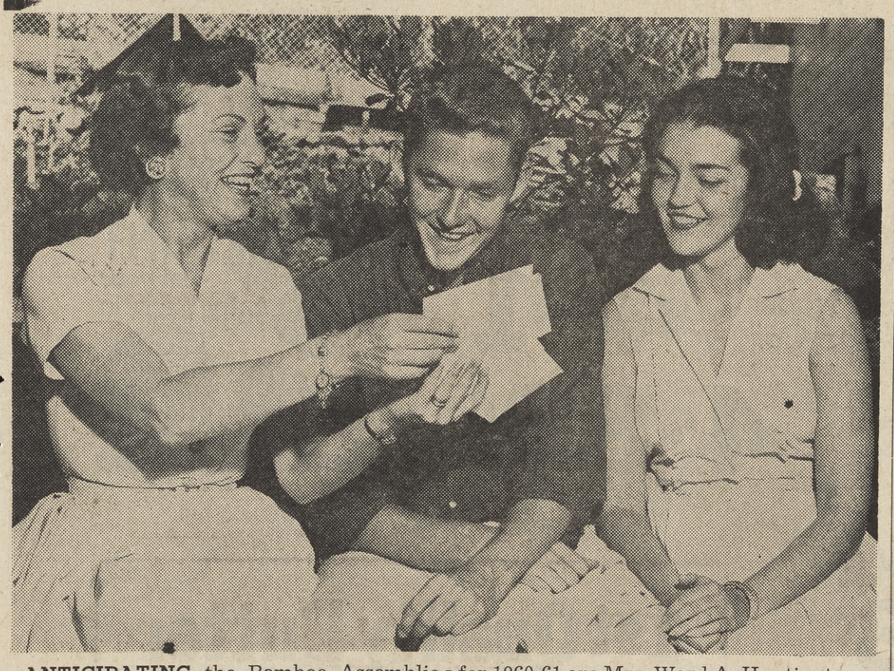
A Hawaiian theme was selected for the annual dance presented by the Pleasant Hill Junior Woman's Club Friday evening at the Sportsman's Club in Walnut Creek.

A light supper was served at midnight. Proceeds from the dance went towards buying equipment for the loan closet, which loans without charge to persons in need of hospital facilities.

Mesdames Richard A. Gillespie, William T. Calder, Kenneth Nieman, Robert Mechler, and W. Hallmeyer were on the dance committee.

A barbecue and swim party was held at the house of the newly elected president Mrs. Richard A. Gillespie. Attending were: Mesdames Ronald Wilson, W. T. Schrank, W. H. Calder, K. Nieman; R. Mechler, Edward Le Sage, Allen Fraschieri, John Taylor, and 18 children.

A shower was given for Miss Amy Ellen Taylor.



ANTICIPATING the Bamboo Assemblies for 1960-61 are Mrs. Ward A. Huntington, Bamboo Branch, Children's Hospital of the East Bay, chairman of the dances; Dick Stark, president of the student body, Miramonte High and Dana Henry, president, student body, Anna Head School. Members of sophomore, junior and senior classes of both schools have received invitations to the dance series which will benefit Children's Hospital.

Tau Nu Plans Baby Shower

The members of Tau Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi are eagerly awaiting a special event Tuesday, a baby shower, to be held at the home of social chairman Mrs. A. M. Walker Jr. of Walnut Creek.

The honoree in absentia will be Miss Lynette Marie, aged at that time five weeks. To accept this accolade for her will be her mother, Mrs. John Evoniuk of Malaga Way, Rolling Hills.

Mary Doyle Unit Has Barbecue; Dates Playday

Members of the Mary Doyle Unit of the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center entertained their husbands recently at a barbecue at the David Humphrey ranch in Danville. Mrs. Humphrey is president of the Mary Doyle Unit.

Red - checked gingham covered the tables set for 100 guests. A Western motif was used in decorations, with arrangements of black iron skillets and hens - and - chickens nestled among "gold" rocks. The spacious patio was gay with lights in the trees and hi-fi music which could be heard all over the area.

Mrs. Paul Ditzler of Alamo was in charge of arrangements. She was assisted by the Mmes. Walter Nervik, Chester Gillig, John Keeling, Stuart Gunn, Robert Ausfahl, and Robert S. Gould, all of Danville; Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Giffin and Mrs. William Owsley, all of Diablo; and by Mr. and Mrs. George Riser of Alamo.

There will be no meetings of the Mary Doyle Unit during the summer, but the members will continue their regular program of volunteer services at the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center and in the transportation of patients from the San Ramon Valley. Mrs. Emmett Evans of Danville is volunteer services chairman.

The unit will hold its annual Play Day on September 14 at the Magee ranch near Danville.

Revenue from the 1959-60 Highway Users Tax Fund benefitted Contra Costa County to the tune of $1,734,693, the office of State Controller Alan Cranston reported.

California's 58 counties received a total of $83,708,423, and another $33,544,556 went to the state highway fund for distribution to the cities.

Pilot Program For Retarded Youths

Embarking on an expanded program of service to the handicapped, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Contra Costa County is screening applicants for a pilot study in work experience for educable mentally retarded youth.

The project will start in September at the Easter Seal Society Vocational Training Workshop, 240 South Sixth Street, Richmond.

Forty boys and girls, 16 years old and over, who have been attending special secondary classes for the mentally retarded in the Richmond schools, will participate.

In classes of 20 they will receive work adjustment and work experience training in the Easter Seal Workshop for five half days each week.

The U. S. Savings Bonds program has been the pattern for savings bond and stamp projects operated by the governments of half a dozen other nations, which have sent officials to Washington to study and observe our methods.

A 10-year extension of all E bonds is now guaranteed by the treasury. E bonds that have matured since May 1951 have already been automatically extended once and will get another renewal beginning with their twenty-first year.

Stroll the Boulevards in Walnut Creek on Aug. 5, 6!

Are you ready to stroll the boulevards?

Put on your walking shoes! You don't have to go to Paris, either. Walnut Creek is preparing for a tremendous new event—a Sidewalk Bazaar, to be held Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6, throughout the city.

It will be just what the name indicates. Merchants throughout the community will bring out tables—onto the sidewalk, through the special dispensation of the city council—and these tables will be filled with unprecedented values.

There will be gay banners, pennants, music, loudspeakers, and even a hurdy-gurdy strolling the city streets!

THERE WILL BE a costumed gentleman playing the accordion and the whole city will be filled with an air of real festivity.

The Walnut Creek Chamber of Commerce, in order to line up every merchant in the city, has taken a preliminary survey from two of the seven block captains who have been appointed to see that the event is the biggest ever offered in Walnut Creek.

Among the block captains appointed so far are Bruce Lee, Frank Pillsbury, Will Richmond of City Music House and School, and Lee Vinson.

THE CHAMBER merchants committee has made, and will continue to make, every effort to assure complete cooperation of all merchants in this event. The preliminary survey indicates that there will be 100 per cent cooperation.

As a special feature the Diablo Art Association has been invited to have members participate, and there will be sidewalk displays of pottery, ceramics, and etchings on display, as well as other forms of art.

Manufacturers of food products will be invited to bring out their merry-go-rounds, clowns and promotions to make the streets of Walnut Creek sparkle!

THE CHAMBER will provide laths and colored pennants to all merchants participating free of charge, as well as cardboard sheeting for canopies and skirting for the outdoor booths.

All in all, it shapes up as one of the most lavish displays ever to be put on in Walnut Creek.

So remember, Friday and Saturday, August 5 and 6, when Walnut Creek celebrates its Sidewalk Bazaar.

Big Refund for County Noted

A dividend in the amount of $26,257 has been returned to Contra Costa County on the 1958-59 Workmen's Compensation policy, F. E. Emery, director of personnel, has told the Board of Supervisors.

This represents a return of 29.5 per cent of the paid preimium.

When combined with credit for past favorable experience this divend serves to reduce the net insurance costs to less than 55 per cent of premium at basic rates, he said.

This is the sixth consecutive year that the county has received such a dividend, and brings the total of dividends received to over $280,000.

In addition, the county has experienced a reduction of 44 per cent in the premiums paid. These savings result from the reduced accident rate among county employees, Emery said.

Automatic extension of outstanding E bonds, paying interest on accumulated interest, brings the yield of some of these up to five per cent on the original investment. The earliest Es issued are now in their twentieth year; another 10-year extension has already been primosed by the treasury.

Gardener Sought By Water Company

A civil service examination for the position of gardener has been scheduled for August 4 by the East Bay Municipal Utility District.

Final date for filing application is July 25.

Applicants must have completed the eighth grade and have had two years of employment in gardening and ground maintenance work.

A two-year course in gardening or a related field may be substituted for the required experience.

Holders of Series E bonds who wish now to receive regular income may exchange their E for Series H bonds. These yield 3¾% when held 10 years to maturity. Income tax on interest earned on E bonds thus exchanged may be deferred until the H bonds are cashed. See your banker.

Plant Shade With Care For Summer at Its Best

In summer, a gardener's best friend is his shade garden. It is his refuge from the unrelenting glare of noonday sun. It soothes and refreshes him and lifts up his spirits.

But as every gardener knows, a patch of shade does not a shade garden make. There's a big difference between shade from a live oak on a barren foothill slope and shade as you find it in a fine city park or beside a rushing stream. The one gives you only brief respite while the others provide a sanctuary from heat

FOR SUMMER living pleasure, it is most important to plan and plant your shade with care. Seek plant material such as ferns that creates cooling illusions, and don't hesitate to use any garden accessory that enhances the situation. A member of the California Association of Nurserymen is your best source of advice in such planning.

The surest and most effective way to garden in shade is with plenty of water. Ferns, fuchsias, hydrangeas, begonias, and most shade-loving plants are only at their best with frequent watering

Furthermore, the water itself is another cooling agent and necessary to the complete shade refuge. Use a fogging nozzle on your hose, sprinkler head. Its mist spray will be appreciated by you and your plants alike.

IF YOU DREAM of running water in your summer sanctuary, ask your C.A.N. nurseryman about small circulating pumps and water bowls. Surround these or fix a permanent one to a bowls (or other water basins) with Baby's Tears or a similar matting ground cover and, for our money, you have the ultimate in summer living.

Construction of EBMUD Aqueduct Set for Fall

Only one entire piece of property in the Lafayette area will have to be purchased in order for the East Bay Municipal Utility District to construct its Lafayette Aqueduct, district officials revealed recently.

District representatives met with Chairman Mel Nielsen of the County Board of Supervisors; John Kennedy, president of the Lafayette Improvement Association; Lou Repetto, president of the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce; and Stanford White, past chamber president.

PURPOSE OF the meeting was for EBMUD to reveal for the first time its plans for the aqueduct routing. Bids for the project will be let in late September, according to Joseph DeCosta, district chief engineer, and it will take two years to complete.

Originally, EBMUD planned to put the new 108-inch pipeline down the center of Mt. Diablo Boulevard, but community opposition led the district to a final decision last winter to use its existing right-of-way for the project.

DeCosta reported yesterday that the district will be utilizing its own right-of-way to the maximum extent, but that in some spots additional working room will be required. He said negotiations are under way for the acquisition of some working easements and a few portions of some unimproved properties.

THE ONLY full piece of property which will have to be acquired by the district is the home and swimming pool of James S. Berry, 1234 Laurel Lane, which borders on the EBMUD right-of-way, T. Earle Hipp, district assistant secretary, said.

The full length of the aqueduct will be 18,000 feet, DeCosta reported, and it will run from near the existing Walnut Creek tunnel on the east to the Lafayette tunnel now under construction on the west.

Of the total footage of the project, he stated, 6000 feet will be tunnels and 12,000 feet will be on the level.

Most of the route will be along the freeway and north of Mt. Diablo Boulevard, and will involve no curtailment or closure of businesses, according to the district officials.

THERE WILL be six tunnels along the aqueduct, including the 2500-foot Walnut Creek tunnel, which will parallel the existing facility in the vicinity of Larkey Lane in Walnut Creek.

The new Walnut Creek tunnel will be bored from the Walnut Creek side, DeCosta said, and the remaining tunnels will be constructed at the contractor's option.

Other tunnels along the route will be located at Burton Road, Dolores Drive, Oak Hill Road, Brown Avenue and Acalanes Avenue.

Nielsen asked whether the construction of the tunnels would require any blasting similar to that experienced in the Orinda area with the building of Lafayette Tunnel No. 2.

DECOSTA SAID the district cannot prohibit the contractor from blasting, but added that the EBMUD specifications will call for a minimum of noise to result.

At the Brown Avenue tunnel, the pipeline will cross the freeway in line with the existing district right-of-way. And at the Burton tunnel, the pipeline will re-our best to keep the nuisance down."

THEY SAID they had no engineer's cost estimate yet, and probably would not have one until just before bids are called in September.

Nielsen promised that in connection with the building of the aqueduct he and Vic Sauer, county public works director, would contact the State Division of Highways to determine if a full cloverleaf cannot be constructed at the Pleasant Hill Interchange, all on the same contract.

The district officials said, "Let's not minimize it, there's going to be some nuisance to some people during this construction, but it's a necessary addition and we'll do quire the purchase of a small piece of road and property from the Contra Costa Jewish Community Center, DeCosta said.

The final portion of the cloverleaf was not possible when the freeway was built because of the proximity to the EBMUD aqueduct, but White suggested a second parallel tunnel at the interchange in order to add the necessary freeway portion.

The mallard duck is the most abundant wild duck in the world, according to the National Automobile Club.

Housewives Warned of Botulism

Housewives beginning their summer canning are warned, "Don't let the hazard of botulism germs spoil the fun of your home canned foods," by Dr. John Baier, assistant health officer of Contra Costa County Health Department.

"Most people," says Dr. Baier, "have never known anyone who had botulism, so do not realize that it is a serious condition frequently resulting in death. It is caused by the powerful poison that botulism germs may produce in improperly canned food. In California, three people had botulism in 1959, one person in 1958, and two in 1957."

THE BOTULISM poisonings that still occur are almost always in connection with some preserved foods. The tragedy is that such poisonings are preventable. In 1925 the commercial canning industry adopted such careful methods that no case of botulism has been known to result from commercially canned foods since that time.

Never sample canned food that shows any indication of spoilage. Just one taste of food containing botulism poison can cause death. The wiser course is to always throw out any suspicious food.

For the thrifty homemaker the answer need not be to stop canning, but to use only approved methods of canning. For many people the home freezer is apt to be a much safer way to preserve food than home canning, especially for low acid foods like vegetables and meat. Get information on safe methods of home canning. It is available from the State Farm & Home Advisors Office.

One article that has not gone up in price since it went on sale in May 1941 is the Series E Savings Bond. It still sells for 75 cents on the dollar of maturity value — and matures in seven years and nine months instead of the original 10 years.
